THE TELEGRAPH SERVICE OF THE DEMOCRAT-SENTINEL IS BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

SEDALIA, MISSOURI, TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 29, 1907. PART ONE

VOL. 1, NO. 283. PRICE FIVE CENTS

A NEW RULE IS ADOPTED

BY SEDALIA BANKS AND TRUST COMPANY UNTIL FINANCIAL FLURRY IS OVER.

CANNOT GET MONEY THAT IS DUE

For This Reason Large Currency Payments Suspended for Time Being—Every Home Institution is Perfectly Solvent.

The three national banks of this city—Citizens', Third and Sedalia—the Sedalia Trust company and the Sedalia Clearing House today adopted the following rules for the government of the local institutions named until the present financial flurry throughout the country is quieted:

By Order of the Clearing House.

In view of the action taken by the clearing houses in Kansas City, St. Louis, New York and other large cities of the country, and for the protection of the public and business interest of Sedalia, Mo., it has been deemed advisable by all the banks of this association and the Sedalia Trust company to cease currency payments, except in small amounts, until the financial situation over the country is quieted. This has been ordered by the Sedalia Clearing House, of which the banks named below are members, and therefore only checks or certificates of deposit for $50 or less will be paid in currency and not more than $50 in any one week on any account. All checks for any amount will be paid through the Clearing House as heretofore. The Clearing House of the city of Sedalia has been forced to adopt this rule for the reason that the banks and trust companies of St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago and New York have absolutely refused to ship currency to any outside bank, and have refused to pay our drafts, in currency, on our balances held by the banks in Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and New York. There is no question about the solvency of each and every bank in the city of Sedalia, but it is simply a question of shortage in currency.

All regular customers of the banks will be accommodated with loans as usual, but the amount must be deposited to their credit and subject to the above regulation as to amounts drawn out by check, namely, not over $50 a week.

This rule is in force by all of the following banks and trust company of Sedalia, Mo.:

Sedalia Trust Company,
Third National Bank, Citizens' National Bank,
Sedalia National Bank.

MR. EMERSON IS HERE

Hopes to Be Able to Resume Business Next Week.

H. A. Emerson, of the Emerson, Marlow & Co. Poultry and Egg Co., is here from Chicago today, as are also Frank G. Gibbons and C. F. Ford, representing the Chicago Title and Trust Co., receivers for Emerson, Marlow & Co.

Mr. Emerson said to the Democrat-Sentinel this afternoon: "Our company has met with no losses or reverses, but we thought it advisable to close down because it is impossible to obtain money in the east to carry on a large business like ours. We have no mortgages, and no debts that we cannot meet. The Missouri farmer wants cash for his products, and as it was not obtainable, and as he knows nothing of clearing house certificates, it was deemed advisable to suspend operations until the present financial flurry has passed."

"The situation is better today than it was last week, and it is improving daily. If it continues as we expect, we hope to resume business not later than the last of next week, and no one will lose a dollar by us."

LYNCHING IN WISCONSIN

Negro Charged With Assaulting White Girl Gets His.

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 29.—The body of Charles German, a negro, who was charged with criminally assaulting a young white girl was found hanging to a tree five miles from here early today, riddled with bullets.

An Alleged Case of Hold-Up.

Will Howard, a negro, was arrested by the police last night, charged with complicity in the crime of holding up John Hayward, a farmer of west of town, and taking $1.50 from the latter's pockets. The case was continued until tomorrow by Judge Gresham today.

Two vagrants were sentenced to twenty days in jail each by the same judge, and given a stay on their promise to leave town.

New Baptist Pastor Coming.

Rev. Ray Palmer, the newly selected pastor of the First Baptist church, will be here Friday afternoon of this week, arriving on the 3 o'clock train from Portland, Ore., says the Jefferson City Democrat. He will be accompanied by his wife and little son.

THE FAREWELL TRIBUTE

WAS PAID BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO A DECEASED SCHOOLMATE.

HAD BEAUTIFUL FLORAL OFFERINGS

Remains of Miss Caroline Dunnica Were Taken to Kansas City This Morning for Interment There.

Escorted to the train by a large concourse of students of the Sedalia High school, including Miss Martha Letts, principal, and several male members of the faculty, the remains of Miss Caroline Dunnica, whose sad death at the High school was told of detail in yesterday's Democrat-Sentinel, were shipped to Kansas City at 7:15 o'clock this morning.

H. L. White and wife, the latter a sister of the dead girl, Mrs. R. S. Vost and daughter, Fannie, the latter a seat mate of Miss Dunnica at school, and other relatives accompanied the body.

Floral offerings, beautiful and exquisite, foremost of which were tributes from the students and faculty of the High school and from the employees of the Pacific and American Express companies, rested on the box containing the casket, attesting in a small degree how well the girl stood among her fellow students and other acquaintances.

The following nine students of the High school, representing the seniors, juniors and sophomores, the three upper grades of the school, acted as a special escort for the remains to the train: Aubrey Hunter, Harry Lingle, Lyman Ernst, Mary Clifford, Daphne Vaughan, Farla Morrison, Steele East, Florence Loveland and Ellen Madden.

The death of Miss Dunnica cast a gloom over the students at the High school yesterday, and as a result a number of the young ladies were compelled to leave for the day and return home.

RETURN OF ELOPERS

J. G. Carr, a Missouri Pacific Machinist, and His Bride.

J. G. Carr, a Missouri Pacific machinist, eloped to Hutchinson, Kas., with Miss Edna Young, a daughter of prominent parents of Newton, Kas., last Tuesday, and was quietly married there.

Immediately after the ceremony a telegram was sent to the parents of the bride, announcing the wedding, and on the next train the bridal couple came to Sedalia to reside. They are making their home at the residence of Mrs. Jennie Whistler, 202 East Fifth street.

Mr. Carr and Miss Young had planned a marriage some time ago. The parents of the bride consented, but desired the ceremony postponed until later. Neither Mr. Carr nor his young bride would consent to such an arrangement, but, instead, they eloped and were married.

Death of Mrs. Rowlette.

Mrs. Sue Rowlette, widow of John O. Rowlette, died of a complication of diseases at her home, 114 East Fourteenth street, yesterday afternoon, aged 70 years. The remains were shipped to Longwood today for interment. Deceased leaves several children, among them being Misses Lucy and Lizzie Rowlette, well known dressmakers.

NOW MRS. IRWIN AGAIN

SHE GOT A DIVORCE FROM JOHN S. FEE IN ST. LOUIS MONDAY.

LIVED IN SEDALIA MANY YEARS

Married a Man Fifteen Years Her Junior, Who Spent $20,000 or Her Money and Then Skipped Out With Actress.

The picture of a former Sedalia lady was printed in Monday afternoon's issue of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, together with the following:

Mrs. Dorothea Irwin Fee, 52 years old, obtained a divorce Monday from John S. Fee, 37, whom she accused of leaving her for another woman. Before the suit for divorce was filed Mrs. Fee had applied for an information charging her husband with abandonment. At that time Fee was living at the West End hotel, Beatrice Brevaine, formerly a "fencing girl" with Anna Held's "Little Duchess" company, was also a guest at the hotel. They left immediately after the information was issued.

Fee was formerly president of the Fee-Davis Coal Co. Judge Allen, in issuing the decree, allowed the wife $5,000 alimony, $500 counsel fee and permission to resume the name of Irwin, which she bore prior to her last marriage.

Mrs. Fee lives at the Usona hotel. She was married, according to her testimony, at Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 19, 1900, and lived with her husband until Dec. 5, 1905, when, Mrs. Fee told Judge Allen, "he left the city and when he returned went to live at another hotel with another person."

Attorney Jephtha D. Howe, representing Mrs. Fee, said there had been an agreement whereby Fee should pay his wife $2,500 in lieu of alimony, but this agreement had not been carried out. Howe said that Mrs. Fee had decided to ask for more than $2,500 alimony. Mrs. Fee testified that her husband was traveling salesman for a champagne company, and that he had written her of his making $800 to $1,000 every two weeks.

Emil Dreyfus, a New York lace importer, filed suit against Beatrice Brevaine, as his wife, asking for a divorce and naming Fee. Dreyfus now has pending against Fee a suit for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Mrs. Fee, or Mrs. Irwin, as she will call herself, has pending against Fee a suit for between $80,000 and $100,000, which, she says, she loaned him. Her maiden name was Estling and her home was in Detroit. Her first husband was a wealthy railroad official. She had been a widow five years when she married Fee.

TWO CRACKER-JACKS

Has Secured the "Grand Mogul" and "In the Bishop's Carriage."

Manager Olendorf, of the New Sedalia theater, has scored two more hits which will still further demonstrate to the people his indomitable push and energy, as well as constant vigilance in the task of securing the highest class attractions for his patrons.

His latest is the booking of Klaw & Erlanger's own company, presenting Frank Monlan in "The Grand Mogul." This is the original company and original production, which held the boards of the New Amsterdam theater, New York, for an unprecedented run. While on tour it gives the same careful production, with the same people, as was given in New York.

Another attraction of the first magnitude that has just been booked is "In the Bishop's Carriage," under the direction and ownership of Liebler & Co., who never send out anything but the most clever productions.

"In the Bishop's Carriage" is one of the best dramatic productions of recent years and would be good under any management, but with Liebler & Co. directing, it is given with such care and attention to detail as to make it an artistic triumph.

The dates for these splendid attractions will be given later.

Plow Maker Is Dead.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Charles H. Deere, head of the great Deere plow works, died here this morning after a long illness, aged seventy years.

Has Quit Sedalia for Good.

Lou Baptiste, the well-known wrestler, who came here several weeks ago to manage the Sedalia Athletic club rooms, and wife, have gone to Kansas City for a visit, after which they will go to Texas, where they will remain. Mr. Baptiste left Sedalia because his venture here did not pay even his living expenses.

"The Land of Nod" People Here.

"The Land of Nod" theatrical company, which plays at the Sedalia theater tonight, arrived here from Kansas City at 11:05 o'clock this morning.

Case Again Continued.

The case of Nell Harris, charged with assaulting Maggie Atkins, a mulatto, was continued until tomorrow by Judge Rickman today.

TIED TO A TOMBSTONE

JURY RETURNS $14,000 COSTS AGAINST HAZERS AT KEWANEE, ILL.

THE CASE WAS MOST SENSATIONAL

Farmer Boy Tied to a Gravestone in the Night; Pulls It Over on Himself and Sustains Quite Serious Injuries.

Kewanee, Ill., Oct. 29.—Fourteen thousand dollars damages was the verdict of a jury yesterday in a suit brought by Charles Stoner against five young men of prominent families in Bradford, Ill., for injuries caused in a hazing prank, of which he was the victim. The defendants are William Real, Earl Lappin, Arley Harwood, Earl Howe and Francis Long. The case has been most sensational. Stoner, the son of a farmer, was attending school in Bradford last spring when the incident occurred. He was enticed from home one evening and was then dragged into a cemetery at the edge of the city, where he was tied to a tombstone.

His tormentors left him with the impression that he would have to remain there all night. When they returned he was terribly frightened at the shadowy forms approaching among the trees and made a desperate effort to free himself.

As he lunged forward he pulled the tombstone to which he was tied over upon him. His knee was broken and he suffered internal injuries. His captors then freed him and he was taken to a hospital, where he remained a nervous wreck for many weeks.

One of his hazers, Arthur Pilgrim, left before suit was filed for California and has not returned. Another, John Sharkey, is thought to be in South Dakota.

These two, together with the five against whom civil action was brought, have now been indicted on a charge of conspiracy.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES

Those That Were Made on the Docket Today.

The following entries were docketed in the Pettis county circuit court today:

George Theis, Jr., vs. Dr. E. A. Wood, note; in accordance with judge's instructions, jury returned a verdict for defendant.

Sallie Jones vs. J. C. Smith et al, partition; decree granted and land ordered sold.

Mary Ann Jones vs. Robert William Jones et al, damages; decree of partition granted and property ordered sold.

Mollie B. Petty vs. William L. Petty, divorce; decree of divorce granted plaintiff.

GERMAN EDITOR WINS SUIT

Was Sued for Damages by Von Moltke but Comes Out Ahead

Berlin, Oct. 29.—Maximilian Harden, the editor, was acquitted today in the damage suit brought by Gen. Count Von Moltke, formerly military governor of Berlin, for defamation of character. Von Moltke must pay the cost of the trial.

Named as Curator.

Probate Judge Kennedy today appointed H. R. Camp curator of Margaretta Johnson, a minor.

TWELVE STATES TO VOTE

SIX COMMONWEALTHS ARE TO VOTE ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5.

FIVE TO SELECT STATE OFFICERS

Many Tickets in Field—Mississippi Has Only One, That Being the Democratic—Noel for Governor.

New York, Oct. 29.—There will be elections in twelve states one week from today. In Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky a governor and other state officers are to be chosen; in New Jersey a governor only; in New York two associate justices of the court of appeals; in Pennsylvania a state treasurer, and in Nebraska a railroad commissioner and two regents of the State University. In Ohio, Utah and California municipal officers are to be selected, while in New York county a number of judges and a sheriff are to be voted for.

The prohibitionists have a state ticket in all the states, except Maryland and Mississippi, and city tickets in Cleveland and Cincinnati, but not in San Francisco or Salt Lake.

The socialists also have tickets in all the states, except Mississippi and Maryland, and city tickets in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Salt Lake, but not in San Francisco.

The socialist labor party has tickets in Kentucky, Massachusetts and New Jersey, while union labor made nominations for city officers in San Francisco.

There is only one ticket—the democratic—in Mississippi, and the result, of course, is not doubtful.

In Massachusetts there are ten tickets, five being divided among the democrats, who are engaged in a factional fight in the state delegation to the national democratic convention next year in prospective. The ballot law commission decided that Henry M. Whitney was the nominee for governor.

In Nebraska the democrats and populists fused on the officials to be voted for throughout the state.

In Maryland there will be a straight contest between the democrats and the republicans, only the two parties having made nominations for state officers. In addition to these, a house of delegates and one-half of the state senate are to be elected. The next legislature will choose two United States senators—one to fill the unexpired term of the late Arthur P. Gorman and the other to take the place of Senator Rayner. The republicans adhere to the old plan of senatorial election, but the democrats are to put into effect a new senatorial primary plan, which requires every member of the legislature to vote for the candidates receiving the highest vote in his district. The senatorial primaries, so far, at least, as the democrats are concerned, will hereafter be a part of the regular elections in Maryland. Three aspirants for the long term will be voted for Nov. 5, the candidate for the short term having no opposition.

The local elections, particularly in New York county, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Salt Lake and San Francisco, are of particular interest this year. In New York county the republicans and the independence league (Hearst) forces have fused on the county ticket, which is made up of a number of court justices and a sheriff. This gives unusual interest to the contest, although the republicans named the head of the ticket, M. Linn Bruce, for justice of the supreme court. The most important office, that of sheriff, went to the independence league, whose nominee, Maximilian F. Ihmsen, has been William R. Hearst's campaign manager in several campaigns. Of the ten judges nominated, the republicans named five, and the league the others.

Opposed to Ihmsen on the democratic ticket is Thomas F. Foley, democratic leader of the second assembly district, and a well known figure in east side politics, while James W. Gerard heads the democratic ticket for justice of the supreme court. Soon after the nominations were made Mayor McClellan, who had been opposed to the present Tammany machine, announced he would support the democratic ticket against the republican-Hearst combine.

In Cincinnati there is a triangular contest, Dempsey, (democrat), being opposed by Frank Pfaff, elected vice mayor two years ago on the same ticket with Dempsey, and by Colonel Leopold Markbreit, the veteran German editor. Pfaff heads the city party ticket, which includes several democratic nominees, and Markbreit is the republican candidate.

In Cleveland Congressman Theodore E. Burton is contesting the mayoralty with Tom Johnson, who is understood to be the representative of William J. Bryan in Ohio, and to endorse Bryan's views on the subject of public utilities.

There are four tickets in Salt Lake City, the American or anti-Mormon party, having made nominations for local offices, as have the democrats, republicans and socialists.

In San Francisco the democrats and the good government forces have combined and nominated the present acting mayor, who is opposed by a republican as well as a union labor candidate, and the three-cornered fight is decidedly lively.

MORE GOLD IS COMING

NEW YORK FINANCIERS EXPECT GREAT RELIEF FROM IMPORTS OF YELLOW METAL.

SUSPENDED BANKS ARE TO REOPEN

Worst of the Flurry Seems to Be Over in the East—Kansas City Has Had No Runs Thus Far.

New York, Oct. 29.—Great assistance in relieving the financial stringency is expected to result from the large engagements of gold for import made yesterday, and from further large imports which it is believed will be made within the next few weeks.

It was announced today that several of the banks which suspended last week have about perfected plans to reopen. The runs on the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company continued today, but in a much diminished volume.

Kansas City in Good Shape.

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—The absorption of the Wyandotte State bank of Kansas City, Kas., with deposits of $500,000, by the Commercial bank of Kansas City, Mo., was affected at midnight last night, but did not cause any excitement this morning.

J. F. Downing, a leading member of the Clearing House association, said that no trouble was experienced by any of the banks on the Missouri side today, and there were no appearances of a run on any of the local banks this morning.

DIED AT THE AGE OF 96

H. A. Blanchard, Grandfather of Mrs. V. T. McCurdy.

Mrs. V. T. McCurdy is home from Waverly, Mo., where she was called by the death of her grandfather, H. A. Blanchard, who died last Saturday at his home in Waverly and was buried Sunday.

Mr. Blanchard was born in Portsmouth, England, 96 years ago. He came to America in 1821 and settled in Virginia. In 1839 he came to Missouri, locating in Lafayette county, where he has resided continuously since.

Mr. Blanchard was a member of the Lutheran Methodist church, and was one of the pillars of Methodism in the west. He is survived by his second wife, two sons and six daughters.

BRADY IN KANSAS CITY

In Hiding Until Affairs of His Company Can Be Straightened.

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—Edward Brady, president of the Merchants' Refrigerating company, which was placed in the hands of a receiver last week, following his mysterious disappearance, is in Kansas City, in hiding, according to a statement made today by an attorney interested in the case.

Brady, it is stated, is endeavoring to arrange the affairs of the company, which has liabilities amounting to $600,000, and will soon face the creditors with the object of making a settlement.

Able to Be Up Again.

County Clerk M. L. Imhoff, who is threatened with pneumonia, is up and around today and is feeling better.

BAD MILK CAUSES DEATH

IT KILLS SIXTY PER CENT OF THE INFANTS IN CITY OF ST. LOUIS.

AWFUL CONDITIONS ARE FOUND

Edward H. Webster Comes From Washington to Begin Dairy Crusade That is to Be Most Thorough.

St. Louis, Oct. 29.—Impure milk kills 60 per cent of the children who die in St. Louis in the summer months, according to a statement by Ed H. Davis, chief of the dairy division of the United States department of agriculture, to a reporter at the Terminal hotel Monday.

Mr. Webster is in St. Louis on a special assignment from the government to investigate the conditions surrounding the gathering, handling and distributing of the city's milk supply.

He is accompanied by his assistant, Dr. George M. Whitaker, who is inspecting St. Louis dairies, with the co-operation of the health department.

Mr. Webster said Monday that after inspections made Saturday and Sunday Dr. Whitaker reported to him that conditions in the large milk distributing plants of St. Louis are "very bad."

"He tells me that because of the slipshod methods used in handling milk the St. Louis consumer has no assurance that the product is sanitary and wholesome," said Mr. Webster.

Today he is making a tour of the outlying dairies. He will make a thorough report on the conditions which he finds in those places.

"Our purpose in visiting St. Louis is to introduce here a score card system, which has been adopted in many cities of the east and on the Pacific coast, and which is calculated to raise the standard of milk sold for family consumption."

"The plan is to distribute cards to all dairymen who furnish milk for use in the city."

"On these are printed a list of the points on which the milk is to be judged. A certain percentage is allowed for each point and 100 per cent is perfect."

City inspectors visit the dairies from time to time and mark the cards and take them to the office of the sanitary division of the health department, where they are accessible to the public.

"Any citizen can go there and by looking at the records can tell the exact standing of the dealer from whom he is buying milk."

"Housekeepers have much to learn about the handling of milk. They should not keep it in an ice box in which there is any vegetable matter unless the vessel containing the milk is airtight."

KATY HAS RIGHT OF WAY

Over Cart of Street Railway at Third Street Crossing.

As a preliminary to the operation of street cars over the car company's new route, via East Third street to Sixth street, Supt. N. J. Finney, of the Katy, today issued a bulletin to all concerned, covering the passing of road engines and switch engines over the main line tracks and "Y" switch on Third street.

The bulletin requests such engineers to approach the Third street crossing with their engines under control, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 11:30 p. m. It also states that the Katy has the right of way over the tracks over the street cars, but that the crossing should not be blocked any longer than five minutes.

Concluding the bulletin requests Katy men to assist in replacing a derailed street car in the above locality.

Will Play at Warrensburg.

"The Two Orphans" theatrical company, which played at Wood's opera house Sunday night, was here today, en route from Lexington to Warrensburg.

Were Released on Bond.

Fred Milburn and J. E. Martin were arrested last night, charged with disturbing the peace. In Judge Leaning's court today each furnished bond for appearance in court on November 5.

NO OCCASION TO WORRY.

The action of the Sedalia Clearing House association this morning in limiting the amount of currency that can be drawn by any one person or firm in one week to $50 is a wise and necessary precaution under existing circumstances, and should not and doubtless will not cause the slightest worry or distrust among those who have funds on deposit in any of the four local financial institutions.

It will not retard business in the slightest and can not bring the loss of a penny to any individual, firm or corporation in the city.

The rule adopted is, in effect, simply that instead of handling silver and bank notes and using them as a medium of exchange, checks and clearing house certificates will take the place and become, for the time being,
the circulating medium of the city.

The certificates of the clearing house are, and will continue to be,
as good as gold in the truest sense, and checks, when necessary, can be certified, which will make them worth every cent for which they are written.

As said above, there is no occasion for worry or apprehension. The banks and the trust company of Sedalia are as solid and strong as the most careful and conservative investor could possibly wish, and if we continue about our affairs and give and take certificates and checks, as we have in the past taken checks and currency, everything will move along as smoothly and serenely as if the furry in the east had never happened.

MORE "CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS."

There seems to be something wrong with the law when it permits a man to refuse to answer questions before a grand jury on the plea that such answer would tend to incriminate, when the fact is self-evident that the witness himself could not be incriminated at all, and that the plea is made only for the purpose of protecting those who are unquestionably guilty.

This state of affairs is worrying the circuit attorney of St. Louis in his investigation of the latest boodle developments in that city, so famous is the past for bribery and graft.

Five hundred dollars in marked bills were given to a member of the house of delegates, for the ostensible purpose of passing a private building measure.

The money was handed to the delegate in an ante-room of the legislative hall, and as soon as the recipient joined his colleagues on the floor, and before it was thought possible for him to dispose of the funds, he,
together with his alleged accomplice, was arrested, taken to the four courts and searched. The money, however, was not found on either of these persons, and for a time the prosecutor was balked.

Careful watch by the banks for a few days discovered the bills in a deposit made by a tailor, who, it appears, has been peculiarly friendly with many of the politicians, and when he was summoned before the grand jury the tell-tale bank notes were traced to one Naughton, assistant clerk of the house of delegates.

Naughton disappeared for a few days and upon his return was hailed before the inquisitorial body, but standing on his "constitutional rights," refused to answer questions, and yesterday the court upheld this contention.

This decision, of course, blocks the investigation, and may result in the bribe-takers going scott free.
It may be the law, but if it is it's a mighty poor one, to say the least.

PRESIDENTIAL INCONSISTENCY.

In his Indianapolis cocktail speech on June 4, last, President Roosevelt said:

"Wherever evil doers can be found they shall be brought to justice, and no criminal, high or low, whom we can reach, will receive immunity."

Yet while he was saying this, he knew that the Alton people would receive immunity. He had pledged himself to secure immunity for them.
How do you explain your inconsistency, Mr. President?

Socialism always ends in the destruction of that freedom which it sets out to achieve. Its history is the old story of the man who starts out for wool and returns shorn. It is a metaphysical theory; and its advocates always unite in a church or a party to which they surrender all their natural rights, and which ends in feudalism or a hierarchy. Mormonism is the best example of socialism in this country.

The friends of John Sharp Williams, the democratic leader in congress, are suggesting him, as the most available candidate for president for the democracy to unite upon. Mr. Williams has the democratic requirements for high position, for he is both able and honest, and probably the hardest worker in congress, with a knowledge of books and men equaled by few.

Secretary Taft's political manager says he is very much pleased with the outlook. But, then, it does not take much to make a political manager feel optimistic these days.

The Cortelyou Literary bureau is seducing the labor union organs into the belief that he is a "friend of labor," and the Wall street bankers are for him to a man.

Mr. Harriman would like to abolish government inquisition into corporation affairs. Has he tired of paying assessments to republican campaign funds?

Henry M. Whitney and his ticket has been declared by the court the regular democratic nominee for governor and other state officers in Massachusetts.

Some would-be frenzied financiers have been forced out of the game, but it gave Wall street and the favored banks an awful jolt to get rid of them.

The leading republican politicians appear to have secured considerable of the New York traction "yellow dog fund."

The question is, who killed the bear, Teddy or the colored brother?
Anyhow, the darkey got the $20 reward.

Tennessee democrats are organizing to nominate a southern man for president.

Repairing Paved Streets.

J. M. Brown, who has the contract for repairing worn-out paved streets, is placing all his machinery this week,
preparatory to beginning on the work.
Concrete is being laid at different

COLLEGE GIRLS' PRANK

IT LED MARION GREY TO ESTAB-LISH A MATRIMONIAL BUREAU.

THE JUDGE PUTS HER ON PROBATION

She Was a Student at the University of Michigan and Helped to Raise Funds With Which to Educate Herself.

Marion Grey, the youthful "affinity agent" of Elgin, Ill., pleaded guilty to the charge of using the mails to defraud and for the first time told why and where she started her matrimonial bureau, says a Chicago dispatch.

The scheme had its origin, she said, from an innocent prank of co-eds at Ann Arbor, of whom she was one, and was taken up seriously by her only as a means of getting money to finish her education.

The recital of the girl, made before Judge Berthea, so impressed the court that he decided to defer sentence, putting Miss Grey on probation, as it were, with the threat of a jail sentence hanging over her.

"First, I should like to know the defendant's age," said Judge Berthea when the case was called.

"I am 20 years old, your honor," said Miss Grey. Then she went on to explain how she got into the business that resulted in her arrest.

"I was not aware that it was wrong. Had I thought it was I never should have gone into it. Up to this time my character has been good in every way.

"While I was at the University of Michigan my girl friends and myself answered a number of matrimonial advertisements for fun, to play pranks on our teachers.

"I saved the literature thus obtained, and from it my whose scheme was developed. Nobody was in with me on it, and I am wholly responsible. I became short of funds and wanted to finish my education in college. This scheme appeared to be a money-maker, and so I went into it.

"A very dear friend of mine, Ona Windolf, is seriously ill at Canton, Ohio, with typhoid fever. Her mother recently died, and this had a serious effect upon her. I am anxious to get to her so that I can help take care of her."

Judge Berthea said that he desired to see what the girl's deportment would prove to be in the future, and continued the case until the next term of court. Miss Grey hurried from the courtroom to go to the side of her ill friend.

Peach Omelet.

Have ready half a cupful of thinly sliced and sugared peaches and warm them slightly on the back of the stove.
Beat four eggs with a fourth of a cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and when it bubbles pour in the egg mixture. As it cooks pick up with a fork, letting the uncooked part run under until the omelet is set and a delicate brown underneath, then place the peaches in the middle, fold the omelet, turn on a hot dish, dust with powdered sugar and serve.

Chicken Tart.

Parboil one pound of spaghetti, being careful not to break it. Drain it, and line a mold, twisting it all around. Fill the center with a mixture of two cups of cold chopped chicken, one-half cup of cream blended with some flour and butter and yolk of an egg, salt, pepper, nutmeg and chopped parsley. Steam it like a custard one hour. Turn it out on a dish and pour around it some good tomato sauce. Serve hot.

Onion and Pepper Salad.

Chop six green peppers, free from seeds, and one large Bermuda onion very fine. Add salt, pepper, French mustard, one-half pint olive oil and juice of a lemon mixed with one inch of preserved ginger, cut up fine. Serve on a bed of lettuce leaves, ice cold.

To Keep Lemons Fresh.

Place a lemon under an ordinary drinking glass and it will keep from drying.

To Store Away Summer Hats.

The time is close at hand when white summer hats must be laid aside.
Take a piece of muslin, about one and one-half yards will do. Wring through a strong bluing water and dry. Place this in your hat box so the ends hand over the edge. Make a wad of heavy paper, covered with white tissue paper, or a tin can covered would do.
Place this in the box and put crown of hat over it. This is to keep the under trimming from being crushed.
Get also one-half pound of white wax;
cut up in small pieces, and lay over and around the hat. Cover with the ends of the blued cloth; tuck tissue paper over all, and set in cool, dry place.

Savory Stew.

Add to one quart of chicken-or veal broth a large coffee cup (heaped) of macaroni, one-half teacup of rice, a good sized onion cut fine, a stalk of celery, two medium ears of corn cut from the cob, one Irish potato, two tomatoes, and a green pepper, excluding the seeds or parts where the seeds touch. In season, half a dozen pods of okra will add to it, sliced thinly. Use only silver or well plated spoon to stir with if okra is used, otherwise it will turn black. It never must be cooked in iron. Cook nearly two hours. If served as principal dish for luncheon, serve the chicken meat with it. It is a nourishing dish.

To Launder Ribbons.

Lingerie ribbons are no small item in the summer. One can save considerable by using this mode of cleaning them. Wash in either cold or luke warm water with white soap and while still wet wind around a bottle or glass.
The wrinkles smooth out perfectly and the ribbon comes off unfaded and as fresh as new. It can be used all summer by washing each time this way.
A narrow tape sewed to the ribbon as it is taken out and the tape pulled through saves the trouble of washing the bobbin when the garment is washed, as it is tacked again to the clean ribbon and pulled through in a few seconds.

Goose Liver Klosses.

This can be made equally well of calf's liver. In Germany goose is a favorite fowl, and there are plenty of livers left over for fancy cookery.
Crumble two slices of stale bread and soak them in enough milk to cover.
Melt an ounce butter, add four beaten eggs, parsley, salt and a pinch of spice. Stir until it blackens, add bread and one cup of chopped liver, parboiled, and make it all into balls.
Poach these in broth for one-half hour.
Drain and serve in a pile with a good sauce. This is a good dish, and the recipe can be made by baking the whole in a dish instead of as above.

Capacity of a Munich Porter.

An English family touring in Bavaria, called at the world-famous Hof-brauhaus, the pride of Munich, recently, writes our correspondent. To the waitress serving them the head of the family in a matter-of-fact way, simply held up his five fingers. To the family's astonishment the waitress came back with five quart pots filled to the brim with beer. The visitors bravely struggled with the beer, but only managed to dispose of about one quart between them. Knowing that it would be considered an insult to leave beer, they called a porter and ordered him to finish it. In less time than it takes to relate the Bavarian accomplished the task. Wiping his mustache, he demanded sixpence for the "job," and, having obtained the money, instantly ordered and emptied another quart pot.

A Celebrated Celibate.

A young and handsome rector was recently engaged for a fashionable church. One of the vestrymen with a keen relish for a joke circulated the rumor that the new parson belonged to the order of celibates, thinking thereby to baffle the spinsters and widows of the congregation who were many. One matron, with several marriageable daughters, assembled these and a few young friends about her,
and gave the group a solemn warning.
"Now, girls," she said, "you must not fall in love with the rector. You know he is a celebrity!" And a celebrity the poor man remained so long as he was rector of that church.

Farmer Fools the Bees.

John B. E. Wright, who lives on a farm two miles north of Elmer, N. J., has the third story of his house bored with holes, which swarms of honey bees have found, much to his delight.
The holes lead to closets in the bedrooms, and the unsuspecting bees make honey where it can be gathered from the inside by simply opening a door. It is Wright's keenest delight to take a friend and a loaf of bread to the third floor, open a closet door and start a feast of bread and honey.

of glasses, and had not known a day's bad health for the past 37 years. Her husband, who died last year, was 98 years old.—London Express.

friends and relatives.

TOOK A VALISE AND $14,000

A Virginian Robbed While Asleep in a Pullman Car Yesterday.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The police of this city received information last night that William J. Payne, of Richmond, Va., who is said to be president of the Newport News Gas company, the Newport News & Old Point Railway and Electric company and to be connected with other large enterprises, while on his way from Washington to New York city yesterday afternoon was robbed of a valise containing $14,000 in bonds and stock certificates.

The robbery was committed, it is said, while Mr. Payne was taking a nap in a Pullman. He believes that the person who took the valise left the train at Wilmington, Del.

To Make Linen Purse.

A white costume never is complete now without a white linen purse or bag. Many women who are clever with the needle have several of these. They are not hard to make, most of them being embroidered simply in French embroidery. One pretty bag is braided in a conventional design on both the front and back. The braid is narrow white braid and is to be sewed on the machine before the bag is made up. The bag may be mounted at a jeweler's, or the handles may be formed of three strands braided, each strand consisting of two lengths of braid to give strength and width. There are two rosettes of braid on each side.

Pillow Slips.

If both sides of a pillow slip are left open instead of just one they will be much easier to iron and there will be no hard corners to turn in washing. Both sides can be trimmed with lace or insertion or with embroidery. On one side of each opening sew two buttons, and on the opposite side two buttonholes to correspond. Button over the pillow. They look so much prettier than the usual pillow slips that pillow shams are not needed.

Dainty Handkerchief Bag.

This handkerchief bag is as light as a feather and is an acceptable gift for an invalid. A piece of cardboard six inches square is covered on both sides with a bit of silk. The sides of the bag are strips of pink and white silk loosely knitted. A ribbon is run in and out at the top to be used as a drawstring. Being quite large this bag is not easily lost, as smaller ones are apt to be.

THIS MAN IS A BAD ACTOR

AND YET HE HAS BEEN ENCORED BY THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS.

LONG A FAVORITE ON 'BROADWAY'

Three Little Girls as Witnesses Against Raymond Hitchcock, a Well Known Comedian in New York City.

New York, Oct. 29.—Raymond Hitchcock, a well known actor and the star comedian in "A Yankee Tourist," at the Astor theater, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of felony, made by agents of the Children's society, as guardian of Elsie Voecks, 12 years old.

Mr. Hitchcock and his wife drove in from their home at Great Neck in an automobile, and at the theater Hitchcock was arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Walsh.

Besides Elsie Voecks, there were two other little girls in court. They had been in Assistant District Attorney Garvan's office most of the day, making statements which implicate the actor.

The case was brought to a focus after many months of investigation by Hitchcock's own action a week ago by having the brother of Elsie Voecks arrested on a charge of blackmail.

At that time Hitchcock gave to Voecks $1,000 in marked bills, Voecks saying, according to the detectives who were concealed in the room, and who arrested him, that unless he paid the money he would cause his exposure.

A Tomato Waffle.

Pare six medium sized ripe tomatoes, chop very fine, add one level teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, one tablespoon of butter melted after measuring. Now add enough flour to make a thin griddlecake batter; then beat three eggs until foamy and add. Sift half a teaspoon of soda in a little flour before adding. Have the waffle iron very hot, grease both upper and under lids, place a cooking spoonful of the batter into each section, close lid upon it and bake at least one minute on each side; when serving cut the sections apart and arrange on a napkin. Serve as an entree.

Virginia Potato Bisque.

Peel one pound of choice sweet potatoes, cover with boiling water, boil five minutes, drain and throw away. Then cover with a pint of boiling water, adding a sliced onion, green pepper, a bay leaf and a pinch of white. Cover and cook until the potatoes are soft, then press through a colander. Add a quart, half milk and cream, with a tablespoonful of butter and a wine glass of sherry. Strain through a fine sieve and serve with squares of toast.

Lady Baltimore Cake.

Rub a cupful of butter to a cream with two cups of powdered sugar; add a cupful of milk; when well mixed stir in juice of a lemon and whip very light; then stir in alternately the stiffened whites of six eggs and four even cupfuls of flour sifted twice with a rounded teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in jelly cake tins. When cold put together with this filling and frost the top.

Filling.

Boil three cups of granulated sugar with a gill of water until a drop hanging from the tip of a spoon threads in the air. Pour while hot over the whites of three eggs whipped to a standing froth. Whip until you have a thick cream and stir in gradually a cupful each of seeded minced raisins and chopped pecans, with five figs that have been soaked soft in lukewarm water, then wiped dry and minced.

Favorite Pea Soup.

Get two pounds of fresh spare ribs and one small veal bone. Put in a cheese cloth so as to prevent from straining. Pour just enough water to cover meat, add one quart of fresh peas and one small carrot, cut in dice. Boil slowly. As it boils down, take meat out. Add one quart of fresh milk. Let it come to a boil. Garnish with chopped parsley and serve.

Mocha Tart.

Mix together five eggs, one cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one cup of flour sifted five times and two tablespoonfuls of Mocha extract. Split the cake and put the following filling between and on top: One pint of whipped cream, two tablespoonfuls of Mocha extract and sugar to taste.

German Coffee Whip.

Place two tablespoonfuls of unground coffee in a pan and brown it. If already roasted, heat until hot, stirring all the time. Turn at once into one pint of rich, cold cream with two tablespoonfuls of fine sugar, and stir a minute. Let it become cold; remove the coffee, and whip to a stiff froth.

Paste Makes Jars Airtight.

Scientists and the Bacilli.

A capital story is being told of a scientific man who is known all over the world for his researches into bacteria. The other day at an afternoon party he was given by his hostess some of the first strawberries of the year, and it was noticed that before he ate them he dipped each strawberry most carefully into a tumbler of water. His hostess asked him why he did this, and he replied that it was on account of the microbes, of which there are about two millions on each fruit. After he had eaten half a dozen strawberries he felt thirsty, and without thinking what he was doing he drank the water in which he had been washing the fruit. His hostess tried to stop him, but it was too late. "Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "you have swallowed 12,000,000 microbes!" "Good heavens, so I have," said the scientist, and then added philosophically, after a pause, "well after all, it does not matter much."

Marse Henry's Monopoly.

When Louis Brownlow, now a Washington correspondent, was a reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal, he was sitting at the telephone table in the local room one night waiting for a call.

The office dictionary is kept on that table. Brownlow was turning the leaves idly when Marse Henry Watterston came along.

Marse Henry does not see very well. He made out a figure at the table and said: "Who's that?" "Brownlow, Mr. Watterston."

"What are you doing, Brownlow?" "I'm reading the dictionary."

"Well, skip the adjectives, skip the adjectives, for I'm the only one on this paper who can use them."—Saturday Evening Post.

She Wanted That.

"I shall make you love me yet," declared Mr. Stinjay, determinedly. "I shall leave no stone unturned." "Ah! that sounds something like!" exclaimed the fair girl. "If the stone weighs not less than a karat and is pure white you may interest me."—Philadelphia Press.

Amusements

"The Land of Nod," Sedalia Theater Tonight.

"The Same Old Moon," which created such an interest in the extravaganza, "The Land of Nod," during its recent run in New York, is one of the most popular melodies ever heard in a musical comedy. For weeks after the production has appeared you will hear "The Same Old Moon" played by all the orchestras and most every piano in the city. The song, as rendered in this production, has inspired stage nature to perform a miracle in scenic effects. At a timely moment the moon opens its outer surface, and that legendary personage, the Man in the Moon appears. Then, as if yielding to the complete eclipse of the nine wonders of the earth, he floats out upon the ether and slowly descends to the stage. The illusion of the audience is complete. For aught the auditor knows, the Man in the Moon has been endowed with a new form of air motor which defies gravity. The first thought is that of wires. No, gentle reader, no wires. Instead an invention purchased at an enormous cost to the Rork company, producers and managers of this stupendous mirage of fairyland. It would be a costly tale to explain how it is done, and might dim, in a measure, the delight of witnessing it. There are thirty musical numbers in "The Land of Nod," all of the whistling kind, and a chorus of sixty winsome maids that can sing and dance them.

"A Bachelor's Honeymoon."

The great Hoyt theater success, "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," will be seen at the Sedalia theater on Friday, Nov. 1. This is a high class comedy, and the versatile French actor, Albert DeGuerre, will appear in the title role.

IT PURIFIES BAD BLOOD

VALUABLE PRESCRIPTION TO CLEAN THE BLOOD OF IMPURITIES AND POISONS.

A SPLENDID HOME MADE REMEDY

Mix it Yourself, as it Don't Cost Much—Strengthens the Kidneys and Helps Them Filter the Poisons From the Blood.

A leading health journal, in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood," prints in a recent issue the following: Fluid Extract of Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon, one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well known local druggist who is familiar with this prescription states that it is harmless, being composed of simple ingredients which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

It cleans the blood of all impurities and nourishes the blood. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down, debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Kargon and Extract Dandelion works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

This prescription is better than the usual patent medicines, which are in the most part alcoholic concoctions. The ingredients cost but little and are easily mixed at home. Every man and woman here should make some up and try it if they feel their system requires a good blood medicine and tonic.

The Kargon to clean the kidneys and vitalize them so they can clean the blood, Sarsaparilla to make new rich blood and Dandelion to tone the stomach, clean the liver and make it active and relieve constipation is the way the prescription acts and so mildly and gently that one does not consider they are taking a medicine.

Sulphur Apples.
Peel, core and quarter your apples. Measure them into a market basket and to each gallon of prepared apples allow one tablespoonful of sulphur. Put the sulphur into an old tin. Set this in the bottom of a barrel and drop a live coal upon the sulphur. Hang the basket of apples in the barrel and cover as quickly as possible, making barrel as nearly air tight as you can. Let the apples remain in the sulphur fumes several hours. Then place them in jars and tie a cloth over the top of each jar and your apples are all right. When you want to use them, soak them for an hour or two before using them. Use just like green apples.

To Clean White Mackintosh.
Unless extremely soiled a white mackintosh may be cleaned by washing with soap and water; but if it is exceptionally dirty dip it first in cold soft water and then lay on a clean table or board. With a soft scrubbing brush scrub with yellow soap on both sides until dirt is removed. Then dip in three or four waters until soap is removed entirely, and hang it up in the air, without wringing it. If the mud stains around the bottom have been in long and are obstinate it is best to send it to an expert cleaner.

Tin and Acids.
No acids should ever be used to clean tinware. The best possible means of keeping it in good condition is to wash it in boiling water until every particle of grease is removed. Once a week it can be rubbed with a little powdered rotten stone and sweet oil mixed and finished with a little whitening on a piece of chamois. Tins that have become old and dingy can be brightened by rubbing with a moist piece of flannel dipped in saleratus.

A Bride's Aprons.
The most serviceable pieces in one's trousseau this summer were the over-all aprons given the bride by her girl friends at a linen shower. They are of prettily colored linen embroidered in white, and made to cover the dress completely from neck to hem. They are semi-fitting princess affairs, with wide kimono elbow sleeves, and button in the back with one large button.

TO KIDNAP CHORUS GIRLS

Students Cause Such an Uproar Curtain Is Rung Down.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Six hundred riotous Cornell students broke up a show in the Lyceum theater here last night and brought the curtain down abruptly long before the last act.

They decided they didn't like the play, a musical comedy, and began such an uproar that it was impossible for people even in the first row to hear.

Finally several of them jumped down from the boxes to the stage and started to sweep the frightened chorus girls to the wings.

The manager rang down the curtain and the students started for the stage entrance to kidnap the chorus girls. By a ruse the girls escaped through another door.

WON'T JOIN ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Works in the Shop and Earns Day Pay to Do Away With the "Church Graft"—A Remarkable Stand.

Pittsfield, Oct. 29.—The Rev. Earl C. Davis, the working pastor of Unity church of Pittsfield, created a sensation in the No-License league and Berkshire Ministers' club this week by announcing that he was in favor of high license.

"I believe in the licensed city from a moral standpoint," said he to a Herald reporter. "I don't care a rap about the financial benefit that would accrue to a city the size of Pittsfield from the liquor element, but I do believe that a dry city would be greatly to Pittsfield's disadvantage."

"I was born and brought up in Maine. I lived in Auburn and Lewiston. What I saw in Maine prompts me to my action now, and that is the reason I have taken this stand."

"From what I observed in Maine I believe that no license in Pittsfield would result in the establishment of innumerable kitchen dives that would be followed or run in connection with houses of ill-repute, and morally the effect would be infinitely worse than the open saloon under the supervision of authorities."

"Auburn and Lewiston in Maine are about the size of Pittsfield. In Auburn alone there are 150 kitchen barrooms and as many more in Lewiston under a so-called prohibition regime."

"Some of the Pittsfield ministers asked me to join the Anti-Saloon league, but its views and mine do not coincide and I refused to become a member. I may have something further to say about this later."

As Pittsfield went license by only forty-nine votes last year an aggressive campaign has already been started by the No-License league under the supervision of the other Pittsfield ministers.

Of all ministers in Berkshire county the Rev. Earl C. Davis is most picturesque. Last autumn he created a stir in his church by setting forth his opinion in regard to church suppers.

"Church suppers for revenue as they have been conducted in some churches are a light form of graft. The sale of tickets for such suppers to those who really don't want them is a sort of blackmail."

At a special parish meeting called at the suggestion of Mr. Davis at that time it was voted to abandon church suppers, and the request of the Rev. Mr. Davis that he be allowed to work in the plant of the Stanley Electric Co. was granted. He then asked that $300 be taken from his salary at Unity church, making that now $800.

Mr. Davis arranged with the Stanley company that he should have time off for weddings and funerals. He has taken one evening a week for parish calls, and has thought of his sermons largely while at his daily work. He has an hour for dinner and quits at 5 p. m.

While the Rev. Mr. Davis would not state definitely, it is believed that he will preach one or more sermons at Unity church soon on the license question.

A native of Poland, Me., the Rev. Mr. Davis graduated from Bowdoin college in the class of 1897, and for five years thereafter was principal of the high school at Billerica, Mass. He was graduated from Harvard divinity school in 1904 and was one of the commencement orators. He came to Pittsfield in March, 1905. Before entering college Mr. Davis worked in a shoe factory in Maine. He has a wife and one child.—Boston Sunday Herald.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 29.—Every bank in Reno opened for business yesterday. During the last forty-eight hours confidence has returned to the people, and the belief that there would be nothing which could be called a run proved to be correct today.

A few depositors gathered at each institution and all were paid their demands promptly. Huge stacks of coin and currency are in plain sight behind all the counters, and the general air of confidence that pervades the institutions has done much to dispel any fear that had been aroused.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 29.—Charles McDonald and Ed Smith, arrested for the Great Northern holdup at Rondo, Mont., were taken to Montana last night. The money recovered, $14,395, was forwarded to Montana. The men will be tried at Kalispell.

Smith has been positively identified as George F. Hauser, who was sentenced to fourteen years in the Montana penitentiary for burglary and released on parole last January. The letters "P. M." tattooed on McDonald's arm, are believed to be his true initials.

Berry Bavarian Cream.

Mash a quart of berries, add a cup of powdered sugar and stir well. Let this stand two hours. ### KIDNAPED A PRINCESS

NOBLE RUSSIAN GIRL IS STOLEN IN THE STREETS OF LONDON.

HELD THE PRISONER IN A CELLAR

Revolutionists Hope to Get Their Hands on Her Father. Ex-Governor of Reval, Through the Daughter.

London, Oct. 29.—Barbara Laponkhin, daughter of a Russian princess and Alexander Laponkhin, ex-governor of Reval, has mysteriously disappeared in London, and all the resources of the Russian embassy and Scotland yard are being used to trace her.

Barbara, who is 19 years old, was visiting London with her younger sister, in charge of an English governess Miss Russell.

The trio went to Aldwych theater Oct. 24, and on coming out Barbara became separated in the crowd from her companions and has not since been seen, although the case was immediately reported to the police and the foreign office, acting at the urgent request of the Russian government ordered that no effort be spared in the search for the missing girl.

Since the disappearance the government has received a note in a hand writing which she recognizes as Barbara's, saying that she had been kidnapped outside the theater and was now a prisoner in the cellar of a house in the northwest part of London, the address of which she was unable to ascertain. The girl added that she was wounded and suffering so severely that she intended to poison herself.

M. Laponkhin has been director of the police department in Russia, and Miss Russell suggests that revolutionists planned the kidnapping with the object of bringing the father within their reach. He is now on his way to London. The Russian officials here are inclined to the belief that the girl was carried off for the purpose of blackmail.

The police are nonplused. They say they are unable to imagine how a woman 19 years old could be carried off against her will in the crowded precincts of a theater.

Straight from the Shoulder.

An official of the treasury department who enjoyed the confidence of former Secretary Shaw during the latter's regime considers Mr. Shaw one of the brightest and most interesting story tellers that ever graced the president's cabinet. "Mr. Shaw's strong forte, however, has always been repartee," this official said. "He was addressing a large meeting in Washington a year or so ago and he was advocating saving among government clerks and small-salaried persons. He was warming up to the subject, as saying has always been a hobby with him, and he was saying: 'Every one of you should be saving for old age. You shouldn't be looking for fortune to drop on you or to be pensioned by your employers when you get too old to be useful. Why don't you put something in bank every week, if only one dollar?'

"Mr. Shaw was interrupted at that point by a slick-haired, overdressed young man, who shouted: 'Yes, and then have the bank fail!'

"Well, if any bank fails it will never have any of your money in it," Mr. Shaw quickly replied.

The White House Plate.

The fact that the White House is equipped with a service of solid gold plate for use on state occasions is not talked about too loudly, as it seems, somehow, to jar on democratic simplicity. But the fact that the service is there is recalled by the fact that from New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia are bidding for the work. The plate was bought during the Van Buren administration. It is made up of four large candelabra, five fruit dishes, and eight table mirrors which are so fashioned that they can be formed into one large centerpiece. It is claimed that this service of plate is one of the handsomest in the world, and impresses even those diplomats who have seen the plate of the wealthiest European courts. The value of the White House plate is not generally known.

Largest American Flag.

To hang in the great court of the postoffice department in Washington a flag will soon be made which it is believed will be the largest in the world. It will be 60 feet long by about 35 feet wide. The thirteen red and white stripes will each be nearly 3 feet wide. The cost will be $200.

NO MORE DIVORCES C. O. D.

Will Grant No Decrees Until Costs
Have Been Paid.

Beaver, Pa., Oct. 29.—"Get the money first," is the substance of a ruling just handed down by Judge Holt. From this time no more C. O. D. divorces will be issued in Beaver county.

It has been found that there are hundreds of persons divorced in this county who could not prove it because they never got the papers. Judge Holt has discovered scores of divorces in which the papers were never lifted nor the costs paid.

This has caused the judge to say from the bench: "Hereafter this court will grant no decree in divorce until all costs have been paid."

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 29.—Wichita banks yesterday announced that in order to relieve the situation currency to the amount of $5 will be paid to individual depositors.

Mock Citron Preserves.

Cut the rind of watermelon into small trips or cubes, remove the outer green rind. Make sufficient brine to cover, using a level tablespoonful of salt to each quart of cold water. Let stand overnight. In the morning drain and rinse thoroughly in cold water, then cook in clear water until transparent. Drain again. Make a syrup of three-quarters of a pound of sugar, half a cup of water to each pound of rind. Boil and skim and add a sliced lemon, a bit of green ginger and the rind. Cook until the melons look clear, about 25 minutes, then take from the syrup with a wire spoon and place in glass jars. Boil the syrup down until rich and thick and pour over the rind in the jars. A little vinegar and spices to taste may be added to the syrup before putting in the fruit, if you wish to spice the rind.

English Hot Pot.

Fry a chopped onion in two tablespoons of dripping or butter in a skillet or broad, shallow pot, and lay in a pint of cooked or raw meat cut in one-inch cubes, and dredged in flour. When the pieces are brown on both sides, pour in gradually a pint or more of hot water or stock and a tablespoonful each of tomato catsup and vinegar. Stew gently for one hour, then add three potatoes, a stalk of celery, a carrot and a turnip, all cut the same size as the beef, a bouquet of sweet herbs, and salt and pepper to taste. Stew one hour more, then serve like soup in a tureen. More liquid may be added as it cooks away.—Good Housekeeping.

Curried Sardines.

Mince very fine one tablespoonful of olives, measuring them after chopping; mix with the olives one tablespoonful of curry; prepare some fine cracker crumbs which have been mixed with melted butter, and roll the sardines first in the curry mixture, then in the buttered crumbs and broil or fry, handling the fish carefully and holding the broiler over a clear hot fire so they will cook quickly; on strips of toast lay a blanched lettuce leaf, and place a sardine on the lettuce, dusting minced parsley over the top and adding a few drops of lemon juice.

GOTCH WON THE MATCH

Klank and War Eagle Were Thrown in Three Straight Falls.

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—Frank Gotch made good his boast last night in Convention hall when he tackled two heavy weight wrestlers, Emil Klank and War Eagle, in succession and pinned their shoulders to the mat in true championship style. Klank was the first grappler to take his medicine. The match was a rough and tumble affair, the lowman pinning his victim in twelve minutes. A half Nelson and a crotch hold did the work.

Without an intermission Gotch tackled War Eagle, the big Indian. The Aborigine proved a tough proposition and it was seventeen minutes before the Humboldt champion slammed the shoulders of the Redskin to the mat and held them there. A toe hold turned the trick.

Klank was the lowman's opponent again in the third fall, and Gotch turned the trick in eleven minutes, one minute less than it had taken him to dump the Canadian in the first fall.

SOME THINGS HE NEVER DID

The Statement of a Pastor Startles
His Congregation.

Des Moines, Oct. 29.—Here are some of the things that Dr. Emory Miller, of Des Moines, never did:

He never whistled on Sunday, never swore in his life, never was inside a theater, never saw a horse race, never saw a dance of any description and never sang any songs except Gospel hymns and "America" on Sunday.

Dr. Miller is pastor of the Asbury Methodist church, and he announced his creed right at the start. But he is liberal about others, and asserts he isn't so particular whether the younger members of his parish are so straightlaced as he has been.

"But I have never regretted that my life was as it was," said Dr. Miller.

BANK CASHIER A SUICIDE

An investigation of his accounts is going on, and a movement is also on foot to have the other banks of the city take this institution over. According to directors a deficit of $25,000 has been discovered.

"KATY" MAINTAINS RECORD

Only Victim of Dallas Wreck Was an Employee.

Late reports from the scene of the Katy wreck, eight miles east of Dallas, Texas, Sunday state that Fred C. French, fireman, was the only person killed. The Katy road, therefore, maintains its record unbroken, that not a passenger has been killed on the road in a wreck.

French was a son of Judge June French, of Chillicothe, Mo., and a brother-in-law of the postmaster of the same city. The dead railroader is said to have left quite a large estate. The body was shipped to the Missouri home last night. French was 20 years old.

Jose Hernandez, a Mexican student from Sedalia, who was hurt in the wreck, is doing well. There were nearly forty passengers injured. Fifteen are in St. Paul's sanitarium in Dallas. The others were not badly hurt. Reports from the sanitarium are that all the injured will probably recover.

Indian Relish.
Peel and chop one white cabbage and six white onions and arrange in layers in stone jar, covering each layer with salt. Stand for 24 hours, then rinse in cold water and drain in colander. Bring a pint of vinegar to the boiling point, with one-half pound of brown sugar, one-half teaspoon of alum, a heaping teaspoon each of turmeric, mace, black pepper, allspice and ground cinnamon and two teaspoons each of celery and mustard seed. Stir this spiced vinegar into cabbage and onion mixture, set aside over night. In the morning drain off the vinegar, heat to boiling point, again and pour it over the pickle. Do this again on the next day, then set aside over night. Now turn the vegetables and vinegar into a kettle, boil hard for five minutes. Then set aside until cold and pack in jars.

Fried Corn.
Cut the corn carefully from six ears of nice sweet corn. Do not score, and be careful not to cut any of the cob with the corn, but have each grain separate. Put one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan; put in the corn and fry until a nice brown, stirring often. Draw the pan away from the hot fire, add half a cupful of hot cream and salt and pepper to taste. Serve at once in a hot dish. Nice for breakfast or lunch.

Saving Window Curtains.
When buying window curtains always allow sufficient for a deep hem both top and bottom, one wide enough to take the latch. On the top hem sew a strip of tape, through which to put the nails or clips which secure the blind to the roller. When rolled at the bottom blinds made in this way can easily be turned upside down and need to go to the cleaner's not nearly so often as if made in the ordinary way.

GIRL WAS LIVING BOMB

CARRIES THIRTEEN POUNDS OF HIGH EXPLOSIVE IN HER CORSAJE.

SHE KILLED A RUSSIAN GENERAL

Woman Who Slew Him Had Also Intended to Destroy Headquarters of the Hated "Third Section" Secret Police.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29.—Carrying in her corsage thirteen pounds of a high explosive, which converted her into a walking bomb, a young woman waited in a crowded ante-room for three hours yesterday afternoon at the weekly reception of General Maximoffsky, director of the department or prisons for the ministry of the interior, and when her turn came to enter his private office, fired seven shots from a revolver point blank at the general, six of them taking effect and killing him almost instantly.

The general's assassin, who was arrested immediately, unhesitatingly avowed herself to be a member of the northern "flying section" of the social revolutionists, who had been entrusted with the task of punishing Maximoffsky for the stern regime which he had lately introduced in the treatment of important political prisoners, whom he ordered to be treated like ordinary criminals.

The assassination of General Maximoffsky, apparently, was designed to be only a prelude to a greater reign of terrorism—the destruction of the headquarters of the secret police—which has been the object of at least three terrorist plots of recent months.

When the slayer of General Maximoffsky, who last night was identified as Mlle. Ragozinnikova, of Perm province, the daughter of a teacher in the imperial conservatory of music, was taken to the police station her agitated attempts to free her bound hands and reach toward her breast led toward an investigation, and it was found that she carried inside her corsage a case containing thirteen pounds of a high explosive, charge powerful enough to blow the entire building and its occupants to pieces.

Mlle. Ragozinnikova's portrait is in that part of the police gallery marked "dangerous suspects," nevertheless, she remained for three hours in Maximoffsky's reception room unrecognized. She pretended that her mission there was to secure a better diet for her brother who was sick in prison. It is understood she will be court martialled this week.

The general was the highest responsible official connected with the Russian prisons, and it is supposed that this was the reason he was selected for assassination by the terrorists.

General Maximoffsky was sponsor for Governor Borodulin, of Akatui prison, Siberia, the jailer of Mlle. Spiridovna, and who recently was assassinated at Pakoff.

Col. Ivanoff, governor of the political prison at Viborg, who was assassinated in September, was another of Maximoffsky's instruments.

The introduction of soldiers into the prison to preserve discipline was one of the detested measures of Maximoffsky.

"Don't Care a Fig."

The clause "I don't care a fig," is a case of mistaken identity. The proper expression is, "I don't care a figo." The word figo means a snapping of the fingers to denote contempt. Shakespeare used it in its proper significance when he wrote, "A fig for the phrase!"

CHANGE IN SCHOOL METHODS.

Consolidated Temples of Learning Is Now the Order.

"The old country schoolhouse of not so long ago will soon be a relic of the past," said James Tighe of Altoona, Pa., according to the Washington Post. "Although one traveling through the country sees many of these old fashioned structures, he does not realize that they are rapidly being deserted and that a consolidated schoolhouse will be met with farther up the road. These new buildings are graded, and many have several high school courses, so that one teacher now teaches only one class, whereas in the old days the pedagogue taught everything from the alphabet to Latin. Of course, the consolidated schoolhouse is not so convenient to all the children, as they have to go a greater distance, but all of them ride to school nowadays. The consolidated school is much cheaper to the community, and what the farmer saves in taxes he puts in sleighs and wagons, so that his children may ride. Pupils can also remain at their home school much longer than they formerly could, and this also is a great saving. We may expect great results from this change, for the farmers with their poor schools have turned out some wonderful men, and they should do even better under the new conditions."

TRAFFIC WAS DELAYED

There Ought to Be Some Way of Preventing It in Future.

Passengers on the East Sedalia street car line are complaining not a little of the delay caused on Ingram avenue, which is not due to the management of the street car company, but instead to the contractor who is building a portion of the Six-Mile Road district on that street.

At 8 o'clock this morning an east-bound car was delayed several minutes, caused by the driver of a team hauling a load of rocks deliberately stopping on the street car track while he unloaded the wagon. When the car stopped, a second driver, with another load of rocks, came up from the rear and took the same position behind the car that the driver in front had taken.

It required the combined efforts of the crew and passengers to persuade the front driver to get off the track in order that traffic might be resumed.

Last week a police officer had to be summoned to make the men get off the track so that cars could pass.

SOROSIS CLUB MEETING

The Program That Was Carried Out Monday Afternoon.

The Sorosis ladies met Monday afternoon, when Mrs. D. T. Abell read the reciprocity papers on "Civic Life," the discussion being participated in by Mesdames Louis Hoffman, J. H. Rodes, Newton Cannon, D. H. Smith, S. G. Mason, W. W. Hoffman and H. A. Pratt.

Mrs. C. E. Calne urged that civic work be begun at once, and Mesdames D. T. Abell, J. B. Mockbee, O. M. Barnett and Louis Hoffman were named as a committee to investigate neglected matters and report the same.

In the current topic section, there were interesting discussions of bacteria on money, the Edison house that is cheaply and durably constructed (referred to in detail in the Democrat-Sentinel last week) and woman suffrage in Colorado.

STUDENTS NOT SLOW

The students of the University of Missouri at Columbia have a way of doing things that is not at all slow. Last week an enterprising student from Hannibal conceived of the idea of enlarging the bleachers on the football field.

He got a few men together, untold his plans and in less than no time the whole student body was acting as one man for the erection of the new bleachers. Over $1,000

The task was one of the biggest ever undertaken by the university students and the dispatch with which they accomplished it gives evidence of a wholesome spirit in the student body.

All of the children of the city are invited to be present.

TERROR TURNS HAIR GRAY

Harrowing Experience of Young Mother in Cyclone.

Shiloh, N. J., Oct. 29.—Although she is a young woman, Mrs. Isaac Redrick, of Seelye, near here, has a head of gray hair, where a few weeks ago there was an abundance of brown tresses. The change was caused by her terrifying experience during a cyclone which passed over the section.

Alone with her little child, Mrs. Redrick tried to escape from her home, which was lifted from its foundation, but found her way blocked, with the roaring wind carrying trees, farm buildings and live stock through the air. It was but a few moments, but since then the young mother's hair has been slowly turning until now it is all gray.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

The crew of the freight train which ran into Wabash No. 10 here last February will be called as witnesses in the case.

"AFFINITY" WRONG COLOR

Girl Answers Marriage Want "Ad" and Finds Negro.

Valdosta, Ga., Oct. 29.—Believing that she had found her affinity through the medium of a matrimonial agency and after exchanging many perfumed missives with the Rev. J. J. Roberts, of Lake Park, a comely and apparently well educated woman, who gave her name as Miss Middleton, traveled hundreds of miles from a town in Vermont and arrived here over the Georgia, Florida & Southern railroad to meet her future husband.

Fond anticipation turned to mortification when she found that the Rev. J. J. Roberts was a negro preacher and known in the town as "Burnt Eye Jake," who got his name from the fact that he had lost one eye in a fire.

The startling discovery came as a shock to the young woman, who had barely enough funds to pay her transportation back to Vermont. She declined to give her address or speak of her family connections, but boarded a train for her home. She had one look at "Burnt-Eye Jake," and that was sufficient.

Failure of Knickerbocker Company Felt in Pennsylvania.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 29.—The failure of the Knickerbocker Trust company, of New York, has caused the McCalls Ferry company to lay off 300 men who are at work on the dam over the Susquehanna river.

At the time it closed its doors the trust company is said to have had on deposit about $500,000 belonging to the McCalls company. The company is under contract to supply the city of Baltimore with electric light and power service in 1908.

ROBBED A REPORTER

Took From Him $2.50 in Cash and Two Gold Teeth.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 29.—Justus Geiger, 6956 Hancock avenue, employed in the sporting department of the Post-Dispatch, is minus two gold teeth, which he had until 11 p. m., Sunday, but which were removed by two highwaymen at that hour at the Frisco railway station at Greenwood, Mo.

Geiger had been visiting friends at Greenwood and was waiting a train to St. Louis, when he was confronted at the station by two men, who pointed pistols at him and commanded him to hold up his hands. Geiger promptly complied and was relieved of $2.50.

"Got any other valuables?" asked the highwaymen.

Now Geiger is a humorist, so he grinned and pointing to his front teeth, said:

"Got a pair of gold teeth here."

One of the robbers grabbed him while the other knocked out the teeth with the butt of a revolver, remarking "Don't be so damned fresh next time."

Geiger won't.

COLD TOWARD GOOD ROADS

Osage, Gasconade and Franklin Counties Opposing Movement.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 29.—Curtis Hill, state highway engineer, was here Sunday, on the way to Montgomery county to attend a mass meeting of the citizens of that county at New Florence Tuesday to perfect an organization of that entire county into one special road district for the purpose of building the central route of the Kansas City-St. Louis state highway.

Mr. Hill says that from information received from that county the citizens are ready to build the highway and that if present plans do not miscarry this county will be organized into one special road district at the mass meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Hill has been devoting his time recently to the southern route which will pass through Jefferson City. He says the work is progressing nicely on this route west of Jefferson City, but that because of the lack of interest in and the opposition to the movement on the part of the citizens of Osage, Gasconade and Franklin counties, the southern route from Jefferson City east has been abandoned for the present at least.

The southern route will now be constructed from Kansas City to Jefferson City, where it will cross the toll bridge and connect with the middle or central route.

BEAUTY MAKER'S CARDS

THEY WERE FOUND IN THE POCKETS OF BUSINESS MEN IN NEW YORK.

LED TO A UNIQUE "DEN OF LIONS"

Intrigues of Apartment House Inmates Are Exposed by "Durand" in His Gossip of Gotham Affairs.

Eighty dwellings of a size and style to get an average rental of $1,000 a year, with modern occupants to give a fashionable aspect to the population, of say 400 persons, would be enough to constitute a right showy suburban community, writes the New York correspondent (Durand) of the Cincinnati Enquirer. An equal number of dwellers at an equal cost in a ten-story apartment house in town do not make anything like an adequate impression on tourists who roll past in sight-seeing motor cars.

Now, Durand may be many kinds of a dolt, but he isn't that particular brand of idiot who tells tales from out under the roof that covers his head. So he says right here that the skyerie is neither the name of the apartment house he lives in, nor of the one which he is going to write about.

The Skyerie isn't over particular as to the character of its tenants, so long as they can assure the payment of their rents. In so big a city as New York all the inhabitants with money to live handsomely can't be expected to also live circumspectly. The Skyerie is not the only structure housing eighty families from whose portals issues forth of a Sunday morning no men or women with prayer books at the hour of service in the churches.

Indeed, all the forenoons in the week are quiet in and around the Skyerie. Its dwellers sleep till noon, as a rule, and midnight is for them an uncommonly early bedtime. Some of them are players at the theaters and have a past midnight suppering habit. Others are connected with the gambling interest, and their busiest hours are not those that the sun shines on. Still others are money lenders, who, like the bats, sleep by day and fly by night.

The Suggestive Name.

Into such an apartment house as the Skyerie there sometimes comes a tenant not tolerable even in the establishment of moral laxity. Such an one was Miss Mistletoe Twigg. That wasn't the name she gave when she rented her apartments. For that purpose she was Mrs. Smith, or something as ordinary as that, and a Mr. Smith accompanied her. But a nicely engraved card bore the words, "Miss Mistletoe Twigg gives beauty to hands and comfort to feet," together with directions to her flat.

Many men found that card in their overcoat pockets during the past month. These men bear the marks of prosperity. Mr. Smith had chosen them during the crowded hours in the downtown commercial district, and, reversing the process of a pickpocket, slipped something into their pockets instead of taking something out.

A goodly proportion of the recipients perceived fun in the card. It purported, of course, to be the advertisement of a manicurist and chiropodist; but didn't the name "Mistletoe" suggest the Christmas kissing token of mistletoe, as well as a toe with a corn on it to fix, and didn't the "Twigg" correctly ask the man to twig the meaning of the invitation to be something novel?

Those who went to the Skyerie in quest of Miss Mistletoe Twigg found in her a dark-faced, black-eyed and red-lipped beauty who spoke with a Spanish accent. She had come really from Cuba, and maybe her brunette colorings had a taint of negro; but there was no suspicion of kinks in her jetty hair, nor of a flattening in the perfect nose, so why question the truth of her assertion that she was of pure and proud Castilian blood? She had the air and manner of a Spanish aristocrat. But monetary misfortune had overtaken her, so she said, and instead of turning her musical or lingual culture to account as a teacher, she decided to uplift the art of the manicurist and chiropodist.

An Easy Game.

According to her autobiographical chatter, she had been attended by a wonderfully dexterous maidservant in her days of luxuries in Spain, and this person had been especially expert in giving beauty to her hands—and she held out as pretty a pair of hands as nature and care ever produced to prove her assertion—and in imparting ease to her feet, at which she coyly extended a small, shapely pair of toes from under her skirt. Right at that point came the psychological moment of the interview. In one illustrative case it worked like this:

"Your hands are lovely," said a visitor whose nails she had been polishing, "but how can I know about your feet?"

"Why need you know?" she replied. "Well, to give me confidence in your ability to improve feet. You are doing well with my fingers, but how do I know you are skilled enough to remove a corn that's hurting one of my toes?"

"Ah, but I could show no scar of a removed corn. My feet are like my hands."

"And they are exquisite."

What with ardent flattery on his part and enticing tricks on her part, the man struck up an acquaintance that in a week cost him as much as would give a satisfactory income to an ordinary corn doctor for a month.

The ostensible husband of Mistletoe Twigg was judicious in setting his traps to catch gudgeons. Especially did he avoid overdoing the game. He placed only sufficient cards to bring in as many victims as the girl could manipulate without arousing any special curiosity in the skyerie. Her patients rarely exceeded two or three per day, but, with her beauty and tact, and especially with her tale of Spanish aristocratic origin, she wheedled big sums of money out of them.

Wife Scores One.

The supposition is that some form of the badger game was planned; that the girl expected to fascinate some man of much wealth and proud family; that, when a case was made out, her pal would loom up as an injured husband, who would take a few thousand dollars instead. But disaster came to Mistletoe Twigg before any such thing as that could be brought about. A very obvious danger in her scheme had not occurred to either her or her partner.

Some of the cards were sure to be found in the men's pockets by their wives, and, while most of these wives might credit the husband's assertion of ignorance as to how the cards got into the pockets, sooner or later a jealous woman would make trouble for the manicurist and chiropodist.

So it came about that one afternoon, a few minutes after a portly stock broker had entered the hand-improving and foot-comforting apartment, his irate wife was brought there by a detective who had trailed him. There was such a row that Mistletoe's business was exposed to the entire population of the skyerie, and she was ejected.

Here is a story of two neighbors in the skyerie. Whoever might have burrowed deeply into the life of Blazer would have found that the only event he considered memorable was

RIDGLEY'S, 612 Ohio

The presentation of a handsome bassoon when he was 20 years old. He had never played on the instrument, but it always hung in the place of honor, and was kept carefully dusted. Blazer was married and was very jealous of his wife. When a certain actor, lodging on the same floor, wanted to see the lady he used to drop a note, with merely the hour and place written in it, in the bassoon.

In Sweet Revenge.

On this particular evening the note read as follows:

"Nine o'clock, at the bridge."

Across the hallway from the Blazers lived Wilson, as jealous of his wife as Blazer was of his, but Mrs. Wilson was fonder of music than of flirtation, and as soon as her husband went out she placed herself at the piano to play out of tune. Since Blazer really had a musical ear this used to exasperate him beyond measure. This evening, the windows of the airshaft being open, the noise became excruciating, and he had the idea to pay her back in her own coin. So he took down the bassoon, in which the actor had deposited the note, and settled himself to make a great noise. Making a mighty effort, he blew the obstructing note out the window and into the mouth of Mrs. Wilson, who was about to take an upper C. Hearing nothing more from his suddenly silenced neighbor he thought she had had enough and retired.

In the meanwhile poor Mrs. Wilson had been choked by the scrap of paper, and just as she succeeded in getting it out of her mouth in walked her husband. He picked up the note, which he believed she had been trying to conceal by swallowing, and read it.

"You wretched woman!" he yelled, "so this is what you do! I will get a divorce."

In vain the poor creature protested that she was innocent.

"You stay here," he went on, "I myself will go to this rendezvous, and we will see what will happen then."

Merely Neighborly Kindness.

At five minutes to nine the actor was already at the bridge. What was his surprise when the hour struck to see Wilson.

"You weren't expecting me, were you, my good fellow?" said Wilson. "Do you recognize that?" and Wilson pushed the note in front of him.

"May I ask?" said the actor, who had recovered himself, "where you obtained that?"

"Out of my wife's mouth, sir," replied Wilson.

"I swear to you I did not put it there." And the accent of sincerity made Wilson almost believe.

"I certainly was very much surprised, as I thought it was Mrs. Blazer's."

"Hush!" And he put his finger to his lips.

NO MORE HERO MEDALS

Carnegie Funds Tied Up in Hands of a Receiver.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—There will be no medals for Carnegie heroes until the Iron City Trust company, which is in receiver's hands, pays its depositors, for it develops that the trustees of the hero fund have $163,000, the accrued interest on the $3,000,000 United States Steel securities given by Andrew Carnegie, locked up in the vaults of the trust company.

William L. Abbott, president of the trust company, said that it would be thirty days or more before depositors could be given their funds. A member of the clearing house committee confirmed the news and remarks.

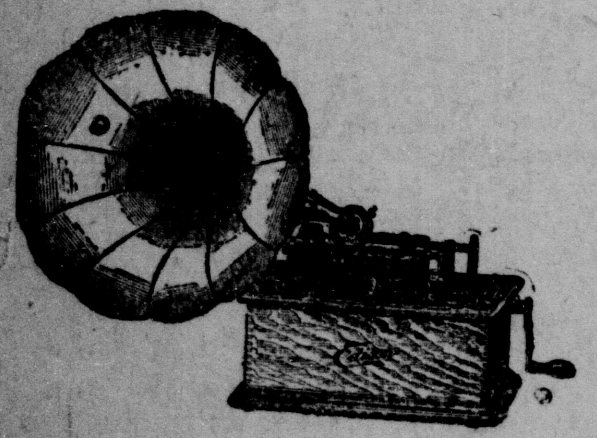

"Well, Andy Carnegie can make up the amount if necessary. That is the least of my troubles now. He may have to buy 'hero medals' for himself."

COURT DECIDED IN HIS FAVOR

Cooper Fought to Retain Formula Which Has Made a Fortune.

L. T. Cooper, the man who believes that 90 per cent. of all ill health of this generation is caused by stomach trouble, is fast winning a national faith in his theory. His claim is now admitted by a surprising number of people throughout the country, and he is gaining new adherents every day.

While speaking of his success in a recent interview, Mr. Cooper said: "I believed ten years ago that any one who could produce a formula that would thoroughly regulate the stomach would have a fortune. When I got hold of this formula I knew within six months that I was right, and that my fortune was made. I called the medicine Cooper's New Discovery, although I did not get up the formula. I have owned it, however, for over three years. I have had one lawsuit over it, which I won in the courts. When it was settled The Cooper Medicine Company became the only firm in the world that can prepare the medicine. The preparation has sold like wildfire wherever introduced. As I have said before, it is successful simply because it puts the stomach in perfect shape, then nature does the rest. There are any number of complaints never before associated with stomach trouble that the medicine has alleviated in thousands of cases."

Among statements obtained recently from users of this medicine that is arousing such universal discussion is one from Mrs. Emma Stanley, living in Chicago, at 713 Washington Boulevard, who said: "Perhaps I had the most complicated case that Mr. Cooper had to deal with. I was troubled for years with my stomach. I consulted with doctors and took many patent medicine preparations without result. My stomach was in such a wretched shape that I could not enjoy a meal that I ate."

"I was very nervous, and could hardly sleep; I had a roaring in my ears and dancing spots before my eyes. I felt very bad and weak. Then there was a very sore spot at the pit of my stomach that nearly set me wild."

"I heard about the Cooper medicine and decided to try it. I used four bottles, and the improvement in my case has been really wonderful. My nerves have been quieted, and I am so much improved that I feel like a new woman."

"I cannot say too much for these wonderful remedies, for they have made me well."

We sell the Cooper medicines and consider them well worth a trial by any one afflicted with chronic stomach trouble and its attendant diseases. —W. E. Bard.

PINCHED HUSBAND'S EARS

He Abused Her, Then She Got a Gun and Shot Him.

Augusta, Ark., Oct. 29.—Enraged at language used by her husband when she attempted to reprimand him for drinking punch to excess at their wedding feast at the residence of her parents, Mrs. John Baker, who in "her day" in local social circles was known as "the prettiest girl in Arkansas," secured a revolver and shot Baker three times, inflicting serious wounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Douglass, parents of the bride, were acting as hosts. The guests were having a good time, when Baker was noticed staggering around the room.

Mrs. Baker pinched her husband's ears, and was abused with rough language. She rushed out of the room and came back with the revolver, firing three times before any one could prevent her.

All Come From Dandruff, Which Is Caused by a Germ.

Split hair, hard hair, lusterless hair, brittle hair, falling hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a measly little microbe that burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the several diseased conditions of the hair till it finally falls out. ## SEARCHING FOR A LOVER

NETTIE WILLIAMS, OF PROVIDENCE, R. I., HUNTS AMID MINING CAMPS.

HIS ADVENTURE WAS A FAILURE

Traced to Wyoming and Then Away—May Be in Idaho—The Young Woman Has Enough for Both.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 29.—Out among the hills of the wilds of Northern Idaho, searching the lumber and mining camps for her lover, who has been missing since last spring, is Nettie Williams, daughter of a prominent merchant at Providence, R. I., who declares she will not give up until she finds the man she loves and can share with him the life he must lead in trying to recoup his fortunes in the Pacific northwest.

Miss Williams declines to give the name of her fiancé, nor will she divulge any information other than that her husband-to-be was a well-to-do farmer in Rhode Island until a little more than a year ago, when the mining fever got into his blood, and he went to Mexico, sinking his life's earnings in property which turned out a poor venture, and he was forced to toil at ordinary labor.

Too proud to return to his old home and admit his failure, he wrote a brief letter explaining his circumstances; telling his promised bride that he would leave Mexico and begin again, and she would not hear from him until he had again built up a fortune, as he could not think of asking her to share his poverty with him.

Upon receiving the letter the plucky young woman, who is of a rich family, started for Mexico, determined that she would find the man she loved, regardless of the fact that his fortune had been swept away. She reached Mexico only to find that he had gone to Wyoming, and she traced him to several camps there, each time to learn that he had become dissatisfied and left.

Miss Williams believes he is somewhere within the borders of Idaho, and she is searching for him, and, although she has undergone many hardships and suffered from exposure in making her long mountain trips, she has determined not to give up the search until she finds the man she loves, and can share with him the poverty or riches, as she finds it.

Prospectors and timber cruisers in the mining camps and forests east of Spokane are giving Miss Williams every assistance in locating her lover, and have provided saddle and pack horses for her to make the journey to the various camps, but so far she has been unable to obtain any meager clues. However, she is not losing heart; in fact, it may be said that she is more determined than ever before, and has every confidence that when she returns to the old home in New England the man to whom she pledged her life will be by her side, should they decide not to remain in the northwest.

"The only explanation I can give for his absence is the fact that he is too proud to return home after having made a poor investment in Mexico," Miss Williams said to the writer in the Buffalo Hump district, south of Spokane, a few days ago, "and I believe he is out here among these hills working to regain his losses. That is the reason I am out here. I have enough money for both of us, but I am ready to share his lot, no matter where he is or what he is doing to make a home. I know he loves me, while I—well, I am looking for him."

WHO USES HYOMEL?

The Best People in Sedalia, Say Bard Drug Co.—Guaranteed in Catarrhal Troubles.

No other remedy or treatment for catarrh has ever been as popular, or made so many remarkable cures in Sedalia as Hyomel.

The best people attest its curative virtues, say the W. E. Bard Drug Co., who are the local agents. The fair way in which Hyomel was sold, to refund the money unless it gave satisfaction, was the best proof when it was introduced that it possessed unusual curative powers. The W. E. Bard Drug Co. takes all the risk of the treatment giving satisfaction, and leaves the purchasers to be the judge.

Later, when Hyomel was used and recommended by our well known physicians and business men and their wives as a treatment that absolutely cured catarrh, no matter how serious or long standing, the sales rapidly grew and today there is no other remedy in W. E. Bard's stock that has such a large and staple sale.

The first breath of Hyomel's healing air kills all catarrhal poison.

Try Hyomel today on W. E. Bard Drug Co.'s offer to refund the money if the treatment does not give you satisfaction.

Her Mistaken Opinion

By Effie W. Merriman

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Russell Maynard sat in his office chair, his elbows on his desk, his curly head supported by both hands and his eyes fixed on a dainty perfume bottle spread out before him. He was reading it over and over, scarcely taking in the meaning of the words, which he already knew by heart. It had been brought to him with the early morning mail, and was in answer to one which he had slipped into Miriam Grant's hand the night before, when he helped her into her carriage after Mrs. Lee's party, and it was now nearly noon; yet that letter was the only one he had opened.

"You can never know, dear friend, what pain it gives me to write this," the words seemed to be tracing in delicate lines of fire which were burning themselves into his brain, "for until I read your note asking me to be your wife, I did not realize how selfish I have been in striving to hold the friendship which has become so dear to me. I know that I have a deeper regard for you than for any other man of my acquaintance, but I do not love you. For hours I have tried to persuade myself that I do, but I cannot. I should be false to my womanhood were I to say anything else, and I should do you a cruel wrong were I to marry you, for I am not one who could make a man happy unless I could look up to him as being greater than myself."

"Russell, I wish we might still be friends; life will be very dull without your friendship (I know just how selfish I must appear), but if you cannot come as you have always come, without fostering the hope that we may be more nearly related, it will be better for us to see very little of each other. I am quite sure, dear friend, that I have read my heart correctly."

Your sincere friend,
"MIRIAM GRANT."

"She means just what she says," thought poor Russell. "Miriam is not the sort of girl to play with a fellow's heart. She has thought this all out, and she cried—there are traces of tears on the paper. Oh, Miriam, Miriam! why couldn't you have loved me?" The strong man laid his forehead on the letter and his frame shook convulsively. A little hand was laid

"I Do Not Mean to Propose," Answered Miriam.

timidly on his arm, and he started nervously, for he had thought he was alone.

"I've come," said a soft voice in his ears. Russell raised his head; his face was so white and drawn that the ragged little mite of humanity standing before him stared at him for a moment, half afraid.

"Well," said Russell, wearily, "what do you want?"

At the sound of his voice the boy lost his momentary fear, and his dirty face became beautiful with the great happiness which shone from the big brown eyes.

"I've come to live with yer. Don't yer member 'bout my bein' yer boy?" and the little fellow kicked his bare heels together in his delight.

"To live with me? My boy! What in thunder do you mean?"

Russell spoke petulantly. He loved children, and usually had a kind word for the most unpromising specimen of childhood; but to-day he was not in a mood to make himself agreeable, or to exercise patience.

"Yer said," the little waif cleared his throat and tried to force back the tears which were fast filling his eyes; "yer said as how I could live with yer an' yer yer boy when granter didn't want me no more." By this time the little body trembled so violently that the child dropped down on Russell's footstool.

"What a little mite it is!" thought Russell, glanced down.

"Ter-day yer put granter in a hole in the ground. They telled me as how he can't never git out, an' I must go to the poorhouse; but yer said—yer telled me I could be yer boy, so I come right here."

Russell did not answer. He was staring in perplexity at his strange guest, and trying to recall the conversation to which he alluded.

"I guess yer don't member," said the little fellow, sadly. "But yer said it, an' then yer buyed apples o' granter."

"Oh! Was it your grandfather who sold apples to me?"

"Uh-huh!"

"And he is dead?"

"The doctor said as how he was dead as a doornail, an'—an' he never said nothin' ter me when I telled him as how I was hungry."

The boy was crying now in a silent way that went straight to Russell's heart.

"Why not?" he thought. "It will give me something to occupy my mind. It may keep me from making quite a fool of myself. I have never had a great amount of respect for the men who die of unrequited affection," and he smiled sarcastically.

"Be yer goin' ter take me ter the poorhouse?"

"Not if you are a good boy. We're going to hunt up a new suit of clothes, as soon as I write a letter. Don't you think you could wash a little of the dirt from your face if I should show you where to find water?"

He led the way to the toilet room, then returned to his desk.

"Dear Miss Grant," he wrote. "We shall still be friends, but I cannot meet you on the old footing just yet, and so do not wonder if you do not see me for a little while. It is hard to bear—harder even than I thought it would be. If you never marry until you find someone nobler than yourself, I shall certainly not be obliged to bear the added burden of jealousy."

Yours, etc.,
"RUSSELL J. MAYNARD."

"It isn't at all satisfactory," said Russell, as he folded the note and put it into an envelope, "but I could do no better if I racked my brains for a week."

Russell's life was made a burden to him for the next few weeks. He was obliged to take an unlimited amount of chaffing from his friends, to answer many questions, asked by the curious, which he considered none of their business, to be made aware of the disapproval of his relatives, and the coldness of his young lady friends. Even the most energetic of the match-making mammas received him with less cordiality since his strange whim had become public.

Nearly three months had passed and he had not yet summoned courage to visit Miriam Grant. She had spent part of the time with an old friend in a neighboring state, and since her return he had planned several times to call on her, but never felt himself quite strong enough to do so.

"I don't want to make a fool of myself," he thought. "It has never been my ambition to marry a wife who did not love me. If she can't, she can't, and I shall not beg for what is not given freely; but, oh, Miriam, if you—"

He stopped suddenly and began a romp with Dick.

"I found a lovely lady to-day, uncle," said Dick, finally.

"Where did you find her?"

"She rang the bell, and Mrs. Wilson was busy, so I opened the door. She said you must bring me to see her some day, and I said 'thank you; uncle will be pleased to.' Did I do it right?"

"Quite right," answered Russell, laughing. "You are learning very fast."

"I told her perhaps we would come to-night, and she said she should expect us; then she went home without seeing Mrs. Wilson at all."

"I don't know about allowing you to make engagements for me, young man," answered Russell, carelessly, as he took up the evening paper and settled himself comfortably.

"Can't we go 'at a few minutes'?"

pleaded Dick. "She was so pretty and so good, and I love her just awful."

"Mercy on me! Has it come to that soon? What is the lady's name, may I ask?"

"Miss Grant. She said you knew where she lived."

"Miss—ahem—yes, I know! What did she say about my—your going to see her?"

Dick repeated the conversation, and was rewarded by being told that he might go to call on the pretty lady, and soon he was seated in a chair very close to her side, busily engaged with a picture book.

"How did you happen to do it?" asked Miriam of Russell, with a glance at the boy.

"I don't know, I'm sure," he answered, with a smile. "I had to make a fool of myself in some way, I think. My friends tell me that I couldn't have succeeded better."

"You haven't added to your reputation as a man of common sense and good judgment," answered Miriam, with a laugh.

"I am kept well posted in that direction; but really—I suppose you'd laugh at me for saying so—but the little chap makes such things quite easy to bear."

"Russell, why haven't you been to see me before? I felt hurt to think that I should be the last of all your friends to learn of your new acquisition."

"I haven't treated you fairly, but I—well, to tell the truth, I haven't yet arrived at the stage where I am willing to meet you simply as a friend."

"I am glad of it."

"What do you mean? Miriam—"

Russell hesitated, and his face became a shade paler. He did not want to make a fool of himself a second time, he thought, and he had been very sure that Miriam Grant returned his love.

"I do not mean to propose," answered Miriam, with blushing cheeks and laughing eyes, "but I have no objection to confessing that—"

"Confessing what?" Russell had her in his arms, and Dick was staring wide-eyed on such a scene as he had never before witnessed.

"That I was mistaken in you. I thought you an easy-going individual without much purpose, one who would be easily swayed by public opinion, and such a man, though very pleasant as an acquaintance, was not my ideal as a husband."

Russell and Miriam have been married several years, and Dick still lives with them. People who predicted all sorts of trouble now say that they are the oddest couple that ever lived, and it is fortunate that they married each other, for neither would have been happy with any one else, or made any one else happy.

CATARRH BLOOD UNHEALTHY SYSTEM DERANGED

The entire inner portion of the body is covered with mucous membrane; this membranous tissue is abundantly supplied with blood vessels, veins, arteries, and capillaries. Each of these is constantly supplying to this tissue or lining, blood to nourish and strengthen it and keep the system healthy. When the blood becomes infected with catarrhal matter it is not able to furnish the required amount of healthful properties, but feeds the parts with impurities which cause the membranes and tissues so that they become irritated and inflamed, and Catarrh, with all its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, is established in the system. There is a constant ringing in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disease, and gradually the entire health becomes affected and the system upset and deranged. In its earlier stages, when Catarrh is confined to the nose and throat, sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are soothing and in a way beneficial, because they are clean and usually antiseptic, but such treatment has no curative effect, because it does not reach the blood. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its foundation; it removes the cause and makes the blood pure and healthy. Then the blood vessels are filled with fresh, reinvigorated blood, which is carried to all the mucous surfaces and linings, the inflammation and irritation are corrected, the symptoms all disappear, the health is improved and Catarrh is permanently cured. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

BIG SCHMIDT, CATCHER

SAYS HE NEVER PLAYED BALL IN ST. LOUIS AND NEVER LIVED THERE.

ALSO REPUDIATES "JAKEY" BENE

Charlie is a Native of Arkansas and is the First Player From That State Ever in the Big League.

Charley Schmidt, the leading member of Hugh Jennings' receiving department, who was once catcher for the Springfield Midgets, and who, despite the fact that the middle finger of his throwing hand is broken in two places, did the major portion of the catching for the Detroit Tigers in the world's championship series with the Cubs, is the first native of Arkansas to shine in stylish company.

"I'm from Arkansas, good old old Hill, and I'm proud of it," stated the big catcher in St. Louis a few days ago. He was en route for his Arkansas home, and got away on an evening train.

"Several of the St. Louis papers claim that I hail from this city, and that Jake Bene put me in the game. That is entirely wrong. I was born at London, Arkansas, and have lived at Fort Smith and Coal Hill since boyhood. I never lived in St. Louis and never played ball there.

"When I played for Springfield in the old Missouri Valley league, now the Western association, Bene was not at the helm. At no time was he my boss.

"I started out with the old T. P. A's at Fort Smith. I caught for that crack little team for several years. In 1901 Mike Finn gave me a try-out at Little Rock. He deemed me n. g., and handed me my walking papers.

"I got even with Finn later on. That was in 1905. I joined Minneapolis late that season, 'Doc' Marshall, now with the Cardinals, was the Millers' leading catcher.

"Finn was in charge of Toledo. We went there for a series of games, and Marshall stepped aside and let me work in every game. I stopped every one of the Toledo hitters who tried to steal, and did some nice hitting besides. I was out to show Finn up, and I sure did it.

"Well, it was in 1902 when I joined Springfield. We had some ball club. Harry Kane and I were the battery, and our work was spectacular, even if I do say it myself. 'Nig' Perrine, Joe Zoeller and Shipke were my team mates that season. I had three years with 'Shorty' Hurlburt at Springfield.

"I was told I had a chance to join the Phillies, and wrote President Shettsline and Hugh Duffey, who was the manager at that time. I told them that they could get me for $150 and I figured that I stood a good chance to make good. But my letters were unanswered.

"I fared well with Minneapolis the short time I was there. Detroit got me in the spring of 1906, and I have been with the Tigers ever since. We have a great team, and I think we will win the pennant again next year.

"What about those Cubs? They're wonders—the best bunch of tossers I ever saw. The only way to beat them is to kill them on the bases, and that is nearly impossible. I'm sorry my hand wasn't all right. Had this bum finger been O. K. Chance's men wouldn't have done so much stealing in the series.

USES FOR OLD RAGS.

Odds and Ends Can Be Turned to Good Account.

Old balbriggan underwear and outing or wash flannel may be used for mop rags, but better still is the waste or woven mop cloth which can be bought at any furniture shop. Mopping floors is hard on cloths, and it pays to buy something woven for the purpose.

Old silk skirts and waists can be cut up and washed, for dusters. Nothing except perhaps chamolins is better for a piano case than soft old silk. For taking finger marks and spots off a piano case use a chamolin and cold water. Polish dry with chamolins or old silk. Old silk is also good for dusting bric-a-brac.

Old black stockings may be made into mitts with which to rub dust out of silk skirts. Put a mitt on either hand and rub the silk on both right and wrong side. These mitts do better work than any clothes brush.

Do not employ old stockings for holders to be used around the stove unless you cover them with ticking. Better even than stockings to fill holders is cotton flannel or asbestos.

The best dish rags are made from cheese cloth doubled and sewed with seams turned inside. Next to cheese cloth come old gauze shirts, sewed double. Either of these fabrics is so porous that grease and grime wash out easily.

Boil your rags in a washing powder and household ammonia. Do not let them get hopelessly and irremediably dirty. And have handy hooks and racks on which to hang them where air and sunlight will strike them.

WOMAN TO STATE PRISON

MRS. ELLA LOUDENBACH IS TO BE TAKEN THERE THE PRESENT WEEK.

CONVICTED OF KILLING JOHN HALL

A Devoted Wife and Mother, She Had an Ungovernable Temper, and It Was the Cause of Her Conviction in 1906.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 29.—When Bart Murphy, sheriff of Logan county, leaves this week for Wichita, Kas., it will be one of the most difficult missions of his official career. He will take to the Lausang, Kas. penitentiary Mrs. Ella Loudenbach, convicted of killing John Hall at Orlando, in 1906.

Since the unfortunate occurrence, the culmination of a neighborhood feud of long standing, Mrs. Loudenbach has been living in retirement with her family at Wichita. She is a devoted mother and her marital relations have always been happy.

It is the old story of an ungovernable temper. That is Mrs. Loudenbach's one fault. And it opened for her the prison doors. She slew Hall because his live stock invaded her garden.

The quick climax of months of smothered feeling has spoiled a life that otherwise had been blameless. The woman made a determined fight for her liberty and her attorneys contested every inch of ground up to the supreme court of Oklahoma.

The friends of Mrs. Loudenbach already are active in creating sympathy which will insure a monster petition for her pardon. Acquaintances of Hall, while maintaining that the tragedy was unjustifiable, probably will not fight the movement for the woman's release.

Is tobacco in the form of cigars and cigarettes an effective germ killer? Smallpox was prevalent in Canton, China, during the recent visit of the duke and duchess of Connaught, and the Princess Patricia, and the visitors say they were compelled to smoke cigarettes incessantly as a preventive of the disease. The duke never ventured out without a cigar.

Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Sedalia People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Sedalia.

G. S. Dawson, living at 212 Saline street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "For relieving backache and other pains arising from a disordered condition of the kidneys, I can certainly highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. In my estimation they have no equal. I suffered so badly with lameness across the small of my back that when I stooped or lifted anything sharp twinges of pain would dart through me. I was advised to use Doan's Kidney Pills and went to W. E. Bard Drug Co.'s store to get a box. After taking only a few doses I felt better and in a short time all symptoms of lameness in my back and kidney trouble disappeared."

VEGETABLES FOR CONVICTS

The "Garden" at Jefferson City Pans Out Exceedingly Well.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 29.—Since the state has taken charge of its "penitentiary farm," operating it by convicts upfit for shop labor within the walls, rather than leasing it to hucksters at a nominal rental, the convicts have had the monotony of prison diet varied by fresh vegetables.

The garden plot at this farm, according to a report just made by Warden Hall, yielded the following vegetables this season, all of which went to the penitentiary dining room, and the value of which is calculated at wholesale prices, aggregating $1,825.40, as follows:

Lettuce, 40 bushels, $20; string beans, 404 bushels, $202; rhubarb, 3,600 dozen, $150; tomatoes, 658 bushels, $494.50; cabbage, 42,140 pounds, $421.40; potatoes, 440 bushels, $264; radishes, 8 bushels, $16; onions, 274 bushels, $202.50; onions, 3,500 pounds, $35; green tomatoes, 30 bushels, $15. ## EDITOR ON THE STAND

A Denial of Assertions Made by the Enemies of Mr. Burton.

Joplin, Mo., Oct. 29.—The hearing of the four women charged with complicity in the blowing up of the plant of the Joplin News-Herald here was continued Saturday night until next Saturday.

The editor of the paper, F. T. Burton, was on the stand Saturday night. Mr. Burton, it has been intimated, blew up his own plant. Burton, his enemies asserted, then sent out to other newspapers accounts grossly exaggerating his losses.

Mr. Burton testified that neither he nor any one in his employ had sent reports of the explosion. He asserted that, the first survey of the wrecked plant gave the impression of a loss greater than it was in reality.

J. O. Leing, night telegraph editor of the Kansas City Star, who was a spectator in the court room, was subpoenaed and testified that the Star had received none of its news as to the explosion from Mr. Burton or any of the employees of the News-Herald. He testified that a reporter for the Star was sent from Kansas City to report the story of the dynamite explosion.

A feature of the testimony was the statement of two witnesses who lived next door to the house in which the four women defendants lived that they had heard a voice right after the sound of the dynamite explosion say, "There it goes now."

The defense claims that as the News-Herald had been losing $150 a week, as testified by the business manager, it is not improbable that some one financially interested in the property did the dynamiting to get the insurance carried.

TEACHERS PLAY HOOKEY

FEMALES "CUT" INSTITUTE TO VISIT THE ATTRACTIVE SKATING RINK.

TWO ARE DENOUNCED IN PUBLIC

Checks Not Won by Attendance Passed in by Friends of Revelers—Other Teachers Kiss
the Big Boys.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 29.—The lure of the skating rink has proven the downfall of two St. Louis county school-m'ams. They cut the County Teachers' association to give slow time a lively chase on rollers, and, when their present terms expire, they will probably have unlimited time for skating.

The association, held in Webster Groves, adjourned Saturday, after continuing since Thursday. Teachers are required to attend unless excused by the county superintendent. Each teacher is given a certificate of attendance for each half day, and must pass them in to show that he or she has attended all the sessions.

Supt. Andrae suspected that two teachers had passed their certificates to other teachers to be handed in.
Investigation confirmed this suspicion, and Saturday morning he called the two young women before him and asked for explanations. They confessed that their love for the roller rink had led them to play "hookey."
Before the session closed, Andrae publicly censured the two, and hinted that when their present terms of service expire they will find it hard to get new teachers' certificates from him.

"Teachers who would play truant themselves and practice deceit in so doing are hardly proper persons to have charge of building the characters of young children," said Andrae to a reporter after adjournment.

"We have had trouble from this evasion of duty by teachers in previous associations, but we have never before had absolute proof against any one."

At the closing session Principal Richmond, of Clayton, who Thursday accused certain county teachers of kissing the big boys and drinking loddy, addressed the assembly, remarking, "We have made mistakes, but our intentions have been of the best."

F. M. Carter, of Jefferson City, secretary of the State Teachers' association and inspector of rural schools for the state department of education, addressed the meeting Saturday morning and presented the subject of "Consolidation of Rural Schools and Establishment of Rural High Schools."
"The two paramount educational issues in Missouri today," Mr. Carter said, "are the articulation of rural schools with high schools and county school supervision. Rural high schools are a success and provision must be made for transporting pupils to and from school at public expense. This has been done in many states and is wholly successful, and actual figures prove that the expense is less than maintaining separate schools in widely scattered districts."

THE ADVANCE IN PRICES

CANNOT BE ATTRIBUTED, SAYS
DR. H. W. WILEY, TO THE

DECLARES THE ACT IS A BLESSING

Pure Food Costs More Than Pretended Pure Food Did Previously—Impure Goods Lower Than Before New Law.

Washington, Oct. 29.—"The whole situation may be summed up in a few words. Pure and wholesome food, prepared in a careful manner, are worth more than foods prepared from inferior, raw materials and in an unsanitary manner.

Pure foods are worth more and should bring higher prices in the markets than the debased foods. Any legitimate rise in the price of such food produce is a benefit to the consumer rather than the producer, and such an increased price should be regarded by the consumer as a blessing and not a curse."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, agricultural department, made this positive declaration when asked if the new pure food law is responsible for the marked increase in the cost of living. He said the cost of absolutely pure articles had advanced because no adulterants are permitted. There has been a marked decline in the price of impure and mixed food products.

In a few instances, he said, prices have been arbitrarily advanced, justification being found in the pure food law. This is merely an excuse for demanding more money from the purchaser, as the pure food costs no more to manufacture now than before the law became operative. Dr.
Wiley regards the increased cost of pure products, which are made more expensive by the elimination of adulterants, as a pronounced blessing, as it contributes to the public health.

"Most consumers," Dr. Wiley says,
"would rather pay more for pure preserves, prepared from sound fruit, with pure sugar, in a careful and sanitary manner, than for a debased imitation, composed chiefly of fruit juice and glucose, artificially colored with a coal tar dye. The effect of the pure food law will be to eliminate unfair competition between the two classes of products so that each may be sold on its merits and at a proper price."

"The price of food products has not been affected at all by the pure food law, except so far as the unnatural competition of the debased product has increased the cost of the pure food product. The law gives the consumer the option of buying the pure, naturally high priced product, or the mixed, adulterated, low priced product. The law does not prohibit the sale of the mixed, impure or imitation product, provided no deleterious substances are used in its manufacture."

"The great staple products, which form perhaps 90 per cent of the food supply, are not and can not be affected by the pure food law, with the exception of meats, which are not under the food law, but under the meat inspection law. Wheat, rye, flour, Indian corn, used as a food product, potatoes, vegetables and all bodies of that class, are not inspected under the food law. The law only applies to those products when they are filthy, decomposed or putrid."

Dr. Wiley would not give a detailed list of articles on which prices have been advanced because adulterants have been eliminated. It is known that this applies to all kinds of jellies and preserves. As an example, the price of currant jelly has trebled. This is true only of the absolutely pure product. The adulterated grade has been correspondingly reduced in price. The currant jelly composed of fruit juices, glucose and timothy seed now is sold at a low figure, whereas, before the pure food act, it brought as high a price as the genuine article.

The purpose of the pure food law,
Dr. Wiley said, is to protect the public from fraud and deception. It is

CHURCHES ARE CLOSED

On Account of Diphtheria at Greenfield, Mo.

Greenfield, Mo., Oct. 29.—For the first time in the history of this town Sunday passed without a single religious service of any kind within its limits, each of the nine churches being "dark" to Sunday school, the customary Sunday sermons, and Christian Endeavor gatherings alike.

This condition resulted from the proclamation issued by Acting Mayor Harris forbidding all kinds of gatherings, either public or private, on account of the prevalence of an epidemic of diphtheria in the city.

The public schools have been closed, theater contracts canceled, and all children under the age of 14 years are forbidden to appear on the streets by this proclamation.

Two deaths have thus far resulted from the epidemic, and there are probably fifteen other cases in the city and its immediate vicinity, all of which are strictly quarantined.

All the physicians of the city have been working practically night and day to stay the epidemic, and trained nurses have been imported to assist in caring for cases.

It is thought that the backbone of the epidemic has been broken, as no new cases have been reported since Saturday.

properties of the blood and your vital intended that the consumer shall receive just exactly what he believes he is buying and pays for and nothing else. For this reason all mixed foods and those containing inferior qualities of raw material or adulterants, and coloring matter not injurious to health are plainly labeled.

This class of goods are now being sold at greatly reduced prices.

On the other hand, food products marked absolutely pure are in more demand and bring better prices.

So far as Dr. Wiley knows no inferior brands of food products have been driven from the markets through the operation of the pure food law. There has been a greatly decreased demand for many articles, and prices have been frequently reduced to one-third of those formerly charged, but the articles remain on sale.

LIVES ON 15 CENTS A DAY

TAX TITLE SEAMAN, OF OMAHA, HAS $250,000 FORTUNE—NO SPENDTHRIFT.

HE RECENTLY PAID $1.40 FOR SUIT

Does His Own Cooking, His Meals Usually Costing Him 5 Cents or Less—Good Thing He Don't Live in Sedalia.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—With a fortune upwards of a quarter of a million dollars, "Tax Title" Seaman, of Omaha, lives upon 15 cents a day and declares that the expenditure of this modest sum gives him everything needful to his comfort, and that he, having no family, is not justified in expending more. Seaman recently gave the Young Men's Christian association $100 to help it to pay off indebtedness on its new building. This is the first gift of the sort he has ever been known to make.

Seaman is 60-odd years old and a bachelor. The story of how he amassed his fortune is very unique. He has got together his quarter of a million dollars trafficking in tax titles. His Christian name is Andrew, but he is known to everybody in Omaha as "Tax Title" Seaman on account of his peculiar business.

This peculiar man lives alone in a little old, weather-beaten, dilapidated house near the village of Benson, a few miles west of Omaha, and he does his own cooking, washing, ironing, sweeping, mending and cobbling. It is five or six miles from his home to the business district of Omaha, where he transacts his unique business. Yet he does not make a practice of riding on the street cars. He commonly walks from his home to the city in the morning and from the city back to his home in the evening, and not infrequently he takes much longer walks. Every once in a while he goes to Kansas City and Denver to buy tax titles, and it is rare that he does not make these journeys on foot. When he does so he puts up at night at farm houses along the way, generally contriving to get food and lodging without pay.

He maintains stoutly that one can live comfortably and decently on 15 cents a day. "I, myself, have demonstrated clearly and conclusively that this can be done," he said. "No man has any business to spend more than $5 a year on dress. I, myself, do not spend that much, but perhaps I have a better faculty for practicing little economies than most men have."

"It costs very little indeed for a man to dress well, and it costs very little for a man to live well, if he knows how and what to eat."

"I do a great deal of my own cooking. But occasionally I get tired of home cooking, as they call it, and go to the restaurants. I do not always eat the same things or pay the same amount for my meals. But I manage to keep my living expenses down to 15 cents a day on an average. I paid only 5 cents for my breakfast this morning. I know a little place here in town where you can get a good breakfast for 5 cents. One morning I was hungrier than usual and ordered cakes, and they cost me three cents extra."

"When I get my meals at home it costs me considerably less than 15 cents a day to live."

"I don't eat much meat. I find that nuts are a good substitute for meat, and I eat them a good deal. Bread is my chief article of diet. Give me plenty of bread and I can get on without much else."

"I never drink tea or coffee. Not a drop of liquor has passed my lips in many years. I never eat soup except when I go to Denver. There I know a place where you can get a whole dinner for 10 cents with soup thrown in. I eat the soup because it is brought on, and if I did not eat it I should beat myself out of something I am entitled to and thus be practically throwing money away."

Onions a Fine Nerve. Onions are stated to be almost the best nerve known. No medicine, it is claimed, is so useful in cases of nervous prostration, and there is nothing else that will so quickly relieve and tone up a worn-out system. Onions are useful in all cases of coughs, colds and influenza, and if they are taken regularly are very good for the complexion.

FATTENING HOGS.

Make Selections Early and Push the Feeding as Rapidly as Possible.

The fattening of hogs begins at the time you decide which will be the ones to go. If they are well started from birth, with plenty of feed necessary for the development of bone and muscle building, then the fattening process may be reserved until the last eight weeks before selling. After weaning they should be allowed milk with middlings, and if confined, a cutting of germ clover or alfalfa while it may be had. One of the family who lives near a brewery has found that warm separated milk mixed with malt is an excellent feed for the pigs during the growing season, and no grain is necessary until ready to finish for the market. With me, milk and middlings and occasionally a little bran mixed with green alfalfa has formed the ration.

I keep salt and ashes before them, as well as a box of charcoal. During the winter when no green food is to be had, says a writer in Orange Judd Farmer, I feed once a day some silage, just what they will eat up clean, and they seem to relish it very much. The value of alfalfa hay with the corn feed the last six weeks is not fully known, yet it will cause a gain of one and one-half pounds a day, which is more than any other ration I have ever known. The Nebraska experiment station has made some very interesting experiments along this line, with remarkable results, and declares in favor of alfalfa hay with corn as the most economical and profitable. Of course, I have no other hay, but know the hogs eat it greedily, either dry or green, and it keeps them in perfect condition.

SHEEP IN THE ORCHARD.

One Farmer Who Thinks They Give Him Good Crops of Apples.

"I think one great reason why my orchard has done so well is because I have let my sheep run in it a good deal."

The old man that said this always has the best fruit and the most of it of any man in his neighborhood. Many years when his neighbors would almost fail of having any fruit, his orchard would have a plentiful supply. Take it this year, for example. Throughout the entire county there is a marked scarcity of apples. But this man's trees are well loaded. He will have a little fortune from his fruit.

There is a great deal of sense in his belief that the sheep have done his orchard good, writes E. L. Vincent in Farmers' Review. All through the spring and fall after the apples are out of the way, he pastures the sheep in the orchard. They pick up any small or wormy fruit that may have been left on the ground. They leave the richest kind of manure all over the earth. They keep the weeds down and altogether cultivate the orchard as it could not otherwise be.

We fail, fellow farmers, by not giving our orchards better treatment. They are starving. Take many orchards and you will see great patches of moss on the ground. The branches are many of them dead or dying. The earth is covered with grass or weeds that provide the best possible harbor for enemies of the trees. How can we expect to get much fruit? The wonder is that we get as much as we do.

Sheep like to run under trees. The orchard is almost the ideal place for them.

MANY HAVE SOUGHT

AND NONE FOUND, PERFECT SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND.

Desire Was As Ardent in the Days of the Romans as in Our Own Time —Fortune Awaits the Discoverer.

Sir Edward Clarke, in joining the ranks of the inventors of systems of shorthand, has yielded to a temptation common to great men of all ages. The learned Egyptian who first got tired of writing out a complete hieroglyphic, and took to suggesting part of it only, was on the way not only to an alphabet, but toward the goal reached by Sir Edward himself. Since that dim period we have all been doing our best to find a royal road to expression, and have achieved the gramophone. Even Herbert Spencer, whose father invented a "Lucid Shorthand," was bitten with the desire to conquer time, and he tells us that an examination of his father's system left him in no doubt whatever that it was the best of all.

The fatality of all systems, however, is that what seems easy to the eye of filial piety may be terribly difficult to the cold gaze of the stranger. Of the innumerable systems of shorthand that were in vogue a century ago how many survive today? In spite of Pitman, fame and fortune still await the man or woman who can invent a system that will appeal to the reader as effectively as to the original writer. Perhaps if we were to rediscover the lost shorthand writing of the ancient Romans we might feel ourselves on the road toward a solution of the problem.

For the Romans were on affectionate terms with shorthand. Did not Suetonius, speaking of Caligula, express surprise that an emperor of so many promising parts should, nevertheless, be an ignoramus in shorthand; and did not Titus Vespasianus pride himself on his facility in the use of stenography both for business and amusement? So fond was he of the sport that he delighted to gather his amanuenses around him in order that they should tilt against each other in the stenographic field. It may be that but for the rediscovery of the art in our own country toward the end of the sixteenth century the curious Pepys would not have been moved to write his Diary, says the London Chronicle.

The first impulse to the rediscovery and cultivation of shorthand in modern times may probably be traced to the desire, at the time of the Reformation, of preserving the discourses of the preachers of the new doctrines. "To write as fast as a man speaketh master and stenographer, Peter Bales, declared to be "in effect very easy."

* the shortness whereof is attained by memory, and swiftness by practice, and sweetness by industry." But the early systems were very inefficient, and this has been considered by critics to be one of the causes of the corrupt readings of the text of some of Shakespeare's plays. Contemporary opinion on the subject may be gathered from the "Pleasant Dialogues and Drammas" of Thomas Heywood (1637), who says that his play of "Queen Elizabeth" "Did throng the seats, the boxes and the stage So much so that some by stenography drew A plot, put it in print, scarce one word true."

The Age of the Earth.

Although it is not considered polite to inquire too closely into the age of a lady, the scientists will keep bothering Mother Earth about hers. Dr. R. F. Schaff of the Dublin museum believes that the oldest and most permanent forms of the earth's surface can be ascertained by a study of the distribution of the present forms of animal life. He finds that animals found east of the Rockies were comparatively unknown on the western slopes until modern times. But almost identical forms are found in Europe—Austria particularly.

This leads to the belief that at some time this continent had been connected with Europe by a strip of land and that the part of North America now west of the Rocky mountains had been submerged. He also declares it proven that North and South America were not joined together until the middle of the tertiary period, many thousands of years ago, but geologically speaking, very recently.

Try Mental Prism Habit.

As the gulf stream leaves a warm, soft climate in its wake as it flows through the colder waters of the ocean on its way from the gulf to the north pole, so a happy, joyous sunny nature leaves a warm trail of sunshine wherever it goes through the cold, practical, selfish world.

Lydia Maria Child used to say: "I think cheerfulness in every possible way. I hang prisms in my window to fill the room with rainbows." This is the right kind of philosophy—the philosophy of good cheer, the greatest medicine for the mind, the best tonic for the body, the greatest health food known.

NEW LAW BADLY NEEDED

TO PREVENT STOCK JOBBING WITH TRUST FUNDS IN AMERICA.

FAULTS IN SYSTEM POINTED OUT

Say British Banks Do Not Speculate and Are Extremely Conservative Concerns in Methods.

Francis W. Hirst, editor of the Economist, and George Palsh, editor of the Statist, made highly interesting statements today to your correspondent with reference to the New York financial situation, writes the London correspondent of the New York Times.

"I am inclined to predict the present financial disturbance in New York will be productive of great benefits," said Mr. Hirst. "We must remember that America's wonderful resources always are there and cannot be removed by a temporary uneasiness."

"Important reforms in your currency and banking systems and an amendment of your corporation laws, making it impossible to utilize trust funds in stock jobbing, would really be worth much more agony than has or is likely to be experienced during the present difficulty."

"I don't think English investors will invest in United States securities until they feel there is some such security as I refer to."

"New York's wonderful advantage over such financial centers as Berlin, Amsterdam and Hamburg is that characteristic which is regarded in shallow-thinking circles as its greatest drawback—its troubles always come to the surface and in the process of washing its linen in the lime light glare of the nations many valuable lessons are obtained which other centers might be slower in learning."

"I can always learn the worst about any disturbance in New York in a very short time, and this is more than I can say about some other great financial centers. The prevalence of such a combination of barometric indications naturally is a good thing for investors, whose confidence may be re-established as the result."

London Will Feel It.

"The reverberation of New York's anxiety will soon reach London, but for the moment people on the stock exchange are congratulating themselves on their freedom from American bondage, which means there is not so much paper here as a year ago and we are not so much dependent on the American markets as we were. At the same time, if the fabric of American credit is disturbed, London will be sure to feel it. The same is true in Amsterdam, Hamburg and Berlin."

"My opinion is that the same thing will happen in America as happened in England after the South American war, when the capital resources of the country were severely depleted and consols declined. The resources were replenished in good time, and the consequence was that a large amount of stored-up capital was brought forward by investors whenever they saw securities fall in inviting figures."

"But London differs from New York in four points."

- "1. We do not deposit money in sham banks.
- "2. Our banks do not speculate.
- "3. We have a sound banking system."

"4. Englishmen's nerves are not so lightly strung as Americans, and consequently there is not so much of histrionics here during a temporary disarrangement. Really, there is a lot of acting in Wall street during such a flurry as the present."

"Then, too, we are not handicapped with men of high financial position with shady reputations, and consequently investors' minds are not kept in a perpetual state of suspicion. Moreover, the bank of England compels great confidence."

"The present bank rate of 4½ per cent may rise at any moment on account of gold being taken to America. This question is important to my mind because credit disturbances in the United States are connected with grave commercial and manufacturing disturbances. How far credit in the United States is bound up in land speculation I am unable to say. That information we eagerly await."

Rekurs Periodically.

Editor Palsh, of the Statist, in giving his view of the New York situation, said:

"This is one of the recurring periodical crises which come to the progressive nation. The United States has enjoyed 10 years of almost unbroken prosperity. The slight depression in 1904 really did not interrupt progress, as it was entirely due to what we might term a false alarm of crises, the railway companies, in anticipation of a serious setback, having reduced order for material and equipment."

"A financial crisis arises for the most part from a nation's having out-run its capital resources. No nation can progress faster than its new supplies of capital permit, and the volume of trade in the United States for the last 12 months, indeed, for the last two years, has been getting beyond the capital supply."

"Last year the crisis was averted by large loans from Europe. In 1907 the demand for capital has exceeded the supply to a greater extent than last year, and, as Europe this year has not been disposed to place much banking money at the service of the United States, it has become necessary for our people to curtail their capital down to the level of or beneath the supply."

"That one or two trust companies have come to grief is not a matter of surprise. Every period of over-trading reveals weak spots in the economic fabric of a nation and indicates to business men, statesmen and economists measures that should be taken to modify practices and conditions in order to remove the disclosed weakness."

"I have no doubt the experience which the trust companies are now gaining will cause them to take such measures that their strength will never again be called into question."

"I don't anticipate that the crises will result in a prolonged period of trade depression in the United States. The wealth and production of your country never were greater than at present, and all that is necessary to square matters is for the American people to curtail expenditures and be careful to keep supplies of new capital well ahead of requirements."

"The result will be that in a short time sufficient capital in abundant supply will be accumulated in the United States, and another period of great progress will become possible."

Causes of the Depression.
"Beyond the economies of the American people two or three other factors exist which tend to cause trade depression to be of short duration."

"The first of these is the world's immense good production, which will enable your people to secure all the gold they will require for strengthening the reserves of their banks and trust companies."

"The second is the prosperity of the American railways. Their excellent management and conservative action in devoting about half their profits to betterments have given them strength to withstand a period of relatively severe depression without much inconvenience."

"Indeed, a depression which will increase the supply of capital available for investment in securities of a high class character will enable the railways to raise money urgently needed for greatly increasing the transportation facilities of the country. The strength of the American railway corporations at present is in striking contrast to their weakness in 1893, when, owing to the currency crises, so many became bankrupt."

"Indeed, the financial and physical strength of the railroads, and the low prices to which their securities have now fallen, will probably induce considerable purchases of stocks and bonds by European investors who

"Inflow of capital from Europe for the purchase of the securities of railways, and even of industrial companies, will assist to provide that great fund of new capital which must be provided if the American people are to transact a still greater volume of business in the future than they have in the past, and I have no doubt that after a relatively short period of liquidation and recuperation the volume of business in the United States will again begin to double itself in the next decade, as it has done in every previous decade in the history of the country."

"I regard the present state of affairs in the United States as affording an excellent opportunity for European investors to place capital there on exceedingly advantageous terms."

DURBIN DROPS IN FOR A DAY

Got $2,350 as His Share of Detroit-Chicago Receipts.

Baine Durbin, formerly of the Joplin baseball club, now of the world's champion Chicago Cubs, was in Joplin all day yesterday, and will leave for Fort Scott this morning, says Saturday's Joplin Globe.

Durbin received as his share of the world's series the modest sum of $2,350. This, of course, has nothing whatever to do with the big salary which he receives. In speaking of the series with Detroit yesterday, Durbin said that to be honest, Detroit was simply outclassed. "They were especially weak behind the bat," he said, "but we had them outclassed in every department. The Cubs are the greatest aggregation of ball players that has ever collected together, I think. Captain Chance had more to do with the success of the club than anyone else, though. He is very popular, and when he sends a man in he does his best."

Durbin is thinking of giving up pitching and playing in the outfield. He figures that he can last much longer in the big leagues by so doing. Chance spoke to him some time ago about making such a change. "My arm is in great shape," he said yesterday. "I haven't used it much this year, but I hope to be one of the regular twirlers next season if I don't go into the outfield."

Many places claim Durbin as a resident, but his home is in Fort Scott, Kas. The Chicago papers refer to him as a resident of that place and that is the general impression in the Windy City. Pittsburg, Kas., has been laying claim to him recently also. His father is a well known conductor on the Frisco, running out of Fort Scott.

Wentworth plays the Kemper team of Booneville in Sedalia on Thanksgiving, November 28.

Thomas A. Edison, the great American inventor, says: "Fully 80 per cent of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food; people are inclined to over-indulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly every case. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by Arlington pharmacy.

Nevada, Mo., Oct. 29.—George W. Miller, who pleaded guilty last week to horse stealing and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, broke jail here Sunday morning and has not yet been apprehended.

An accomplice of Miller's sawed through the jail window, and gave a saw and revolver to Miller, who then sawed his way out of his cell, and with a drawn revolver threatened to kill any fellow prisoner who gave an alarm.

Miller had to remove his clothes to crawl through the hole in the outside window.

The five other prisoners were unable to get through the hole, and Miller made no attempt to aid his fellow prisoners by saving another bar.
